Biggest Day's Collection Sends 500 Fund Over $2,000

The biggest one-day collection in this year's drive yesterday sent The Daily Colonist 500 Fund over the $2,000 mark.

A total of $404.83 came in yesterday for the fund to help the 500 neediest families in the Greater Victoria area this Christmas. Total to date is $2,134.47.

Several fund-raising events are planned in conjunction with the drive. Victoria Sun Club will hold its annual turkey shoot at the club's Albert Head grounds Dec. 19 and 20, and the fund toy auction is set for Maynard & Sons Dec. 19.

Victoria Chapter 25, Women of the Moose, and the Loyal Order of Moose Lodge No. 1390 will hold a bingo game Dec. 7 at Moose Hall, 512-514 Fort Street, with proceeds going to the fund. Victoria Optimist Club will make its donation at its bingo game tomorrow night at Central Junior High School.

In addition, F. W. Lockett of Cook Street Fish & Chips Shop, 250 Cook, is again raffling off a huge Christmas stocking, and at the same time taking donations for the Colonist 500 Fund.

The $2,000 already taken in means that each of the 500 families selected by welfare agencies will receive at least $4, but there is still a long way to go.

Donations, deductible for income-tax purposes, may be sent to "The Daily Colonist 500 Fund, 2631 Douglas Street." They can be left at that office or at the downtown office, 1215 Broad Street. Latest donations:

175 Feet Down in Icy Depths

Ten Victoria Divers Set World's Record

* * * * * *

Daring Feat May Alter RCN Policy

By TERRY HAMMOND

A group of 10 Royal Canadian Navy divers returned to their Victoria homes yesterday after a world-record mass dive 175 feet down in sub-freezing Alaskan waters.

The divers, ranging in rank from lieutenant-commander to able seaman, achieved a world record for naval personnel wearing self-contained "wet suit" equipment.

EXTREME COLD

Purpose of the record dive was to prove the practicability of wet suits at extreme depths and in extreme cold.

Temperature of the water off towering Taku Glacier where the dive took place was 30 degrees, two degrees colder than the temperature at which fresh water freezes and just half a degree above the lowest recorded temperature of ocean water.

Only two other divers in the world are known to have achieved a similar mark.

BERING SEA

They are two San Diego civilian scientists who recorded a depth of 180 feet in wet suits in the Bering Sea.

The feat of the Victoria contingent of divers may result in a major policy change on Royal Canadian Navy approved diving equipment.

ONE OF FIRST

In command of the diving operation, and one of the first pair of divers to set foot on the muddy bottom near the foot of the glacier more than 800 miles northwest of Victoria, was Lt.-Cmdr. Benjamin Ackerman, 3363 Glasgow, commander of the RCN's operational clearance diving unit No. 2, attached to HMCS Naden.

For him, as well as the other divers, the technical accomplishment was a major one.

He and his men have long advocated acceptance of the wet suit diving technique as standard naval diving procedure.

Below Ocean

'Just Like Wintry Day'

"It was no worse than stepping outside on a cold, wintry day."

That was the way AB Albert Lodge, 21, youngest member of the Royal Canadian Navy's record-setting, 10-man diving team, described the way it feels to be 175 feet below the ocean in water two degrees below freezing and wearing a "wet suit."

"I wasn't really worried—the only thing that was on my mind was the cold.

"We'd tested the suits in a pressure chamber and we had noticed that it shrank to at least half its thickness under the pressure of a 175-foot dive.

"I wasn't really cold down there, and on the way up, as the pressure got less and the suit got thicker again I felt quite warm."

The men of the team got an average of 14 cents a minute during the duration of the dive—a total of about $4 per man (risk pay).

But that wasn't a factor to LS Fred Olkovick, 29.

"I'd even do it for nothing," he said.

"I guess I just love diving.

"Before I went down I sort of wondered, but after I came up I was really thrilled."

PO George Ackerman, a navy diver for more than 12 years, said he was "just a bit cold" on the bottom, but said he would have been warmer if he had had a task to perform.

LS Robert Larsen, a former Toronto resident now living with his wife and small child at 9806 Fifth Street, said he was "sort of dubious" before the dive.

"But I'd do it again any time, I didn't even feel the cold."

Record Dive No Challenge

Civilian "skindivers" should not accept the record dive by 10 Victoria-based RCN divers as a "challenge to try to do better," the commander of the contingent warned yesterday.

Lt.-Cmdr. Benjamin Ackerman, one of the 10 who made the dive to 175 feet in 30-degree Alaskan waters, said "our dive was a stunt, but it was a stunt with a purpose.

"It was designed as a test of divers and diving equipment.

"It was carefully controlled, well equipped and involved only highly experienced divers," he added.

"We had extensive naval resources at our command, we had diving tenders down at the decompression level in case anybody ran into trouble and we had spare equipment, including lungs and tanks, tethered to the descent line in case we needed it."

He said few amateur divers have as many diving hours as the least experienced members of the team, and fewer have the equipment resources to call upon.

Tofino

Electrolysis Sinks Boat At Wharf

TOFINO — The 40-foot department of fisheries patrol launch, Atolla, moored at the fishermen's float, sank Monday night when part of the steel plating was decomposed by a chemical reaction.

Electrolysis — chemical decomposition by electrical action—was yesterday blamed for the hole which caused the boat to settle to the bottom.

Neither Captain Harold Arnet or fisheries officer Gordon Barrie were aboard overnight but considerable water damage was done to the interior of the boat and the equipment it contained.

The Atolla was lifted at low tide and is being serviced at the Tofino marine works.

Shadow of Death Over Jailed Boy May End Hanging

International Furore Sparks Fulton's Reply

(Special to the Colonist)

OTTAWA — An international controversy over the fate of a 14-year-old Canadian boy who is awaiting the death penalty yesterday gave weight to reports Parliament will hold a free vote on capital punishment at the coming session.

Justice Minister Davie Fulton called a special press conference in an Ottawa hotel room to reply to an editorial in a British newspaper which criticized the government for its failure to commute the death sentence.

HUMAN INSTINCT

The newspaper, the Manchester Guardian, said Fulton's failure to commute the death sentence against 14-year-old Stephen Truscott "outrages every human instinct."

Truscott was sentenced to hang for the rape-murder of 13-year-old Lynne Harper, at Goderich, Ontario.

The Guardian said: "Britain was late enough in reforming its law, and Canada is later still."

SENSITIVITY

Fulton's action in calling newsmen covering the Tory convention here to his room the moment he heard of the Guardian's editorial, is indicative of the government's sensitivity on the question of hanging.

He said it would be "improper" for the cabinet to commute the death sentence against Truscott while there is still time for an appeal to be launched.

He said that a new trial could even result in a different verdict.

USURP FUNCTION

"I am surprised the Manchester Guardian would suggest the Canadian government should usurp the functions of the courts, and deprive the boy of the opportunity to have the courts decide the question of guilt or innocence," said Fulton.

(The cabinet has already granted young Truscott a reprieve until Feb. 16, so that his appeal, now launched, can be heard.)

Prime Minister Diefenbaker and Mr. Fulton have indicated Truscott will not hang no matter what the verdict of the appeal court.

FULL DEBATE

The justice minister said he expected "a full debate" at the coming session on the issue of capital punishment.

But, when pressed, he refused to state whether the question would be put to a vote. "That is up to Parliament," he said.

Frank McGee, Tory MP for York-Scarborough, has announced his intention of submitting a bill for the abolition of the death penalty. It will be up to the government to decide whether to "lift the whip" and let MPs vote according to their conscience. The bill is identical to that submitted in the past by Harold Winch, CCF MP for Vancouver-East.

Meteorite

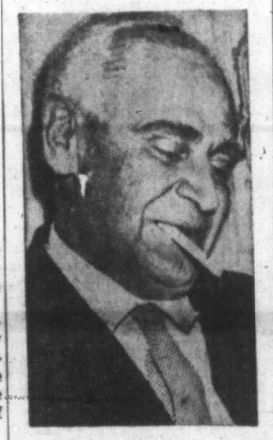
Sky Rock Strikes Hebrides

LONDON (AP) — A huge meteorite is believed to have struck the outer Hebrides in the last few days.

A crater the size of a football field was spotted Monday by mailman Duncan Macdonald on the island of Lewis, one of the 500 islands of the Hebrides off the west coast of Scotland.

"I could smell burning—it seemed to me there had been an explosion," Macdonald said.

At the royal observatory in Edinburgh, Prof. H. A. Bruck said it appeared a large meteorite had struck Lewis. Experts will be sent to investigate.



Rockets capable of carrying 60 passengers from Paris to New York in 15 minutes may soon be built by Russia, according to Soviet scientist Anatoly Blaganravov. He said Russians now have engines powerful enough for the craft.

Line Will Tap B.C.'s Own Oil

Construction of a $9,548,300 oil pipeline in northern B.C. to "really put the province in the oil business for the first time," was approved yesterday by the provincial cabinet.

The line will move northern B.C. crude oil to northern provincial and Vancouver markets.

SPRING START

Construction by Peace River Oil Pipe Line (B.C.) Ltd. is scheduled to start next spring, with completion possible as early as next fall.

It will be the first crude oil pipeline to carry B.C. oil and assures continuance of the province's thriving oil industry. (Trans-Mountain pipeline, completed in 1953, crosses B.C. to Vancouver, but carries only oil from wells near Edmonton, Alta.

'IN BUSINESS'

"With completion of the project, British Columbia will, for the first time, really be in the oil business," Mines Minister Kenneth Kiernan said last night. "We will not only have substantial, increased production, but will have a reasonable chance of marketing that product."

EIGHT-INCHER

The eight-inch line will draw crude from the Beatton River, Milligan Creek and Boundary Lake oilfields in the B.C. Peace River block and will serve refineries at Dawson Creek and Taylor Flats.

From Dawson Creek and Fort St. John the line will run southeast across the Alberta border to the Grande Prairie, Alta., area. Existing lines will bring the oil to Vancouver.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

A SPECK of fluorine salt, in water, is good for your teeth. A ton of the same stuff kills you.

So we are told by some authorities. I don't plan to jump into the fluoride argument—not yet, anyway.

But I'm interested in the idea of moderation. Almost everything, it seems, is good for you in small quantities but dangerous in bulk. All except knowledge. You are supposed to take on a deep cargo of that, or else the first puff of argument will blow you over.

Poverty is often recommended as a tonic for the wits—especially by those who have never tried it. I'm sure that it is. But it must be taken in just the right dose.

A little poverty may kick a man on to greater effort. He may work hard to get steak instead of cold beans, a car instead of a bicycle. However, deep poverty may cut the heart out of him, so that he lies down to die.

Cold is supposed to be good for you, in moderate amounts. Most of the great civilizations arose in temperate countries, where it was cool enough to keep people hustling for food and shelter; not so hot that they slept in the open and picked food off trees, and not so cold that they used up all their energy just staying alive.

Within the right range of temperature, people had time to think.

Some of the civilizations grew, even in warmer climates, because the people were plagued by floods or droughts, so that they had to exert themselves, mind and body, and in the process became greater masters of their environment than before. So the historian Arnold Toynbee would have us believe.

Individual humans seem to run that way. They thrive on a little poverty, a little worry, a little unrequited love. Some of them actually need these emotional vitamins, to do their best work.

But an overdose may kill their spirit, and they go through the rest of their lives without hope or ambition, as if walking in their sleep.

Missing Chinese

Deportee's Wife To Make Appeal

VANCOUVER (CP) — The wife of a missing Hong Kong Chinese intends to travel to Ottawa Sunday to make a personal appeal to Immigration Minister Fairclough against a deportation order which would send the family back to their native country.

Mrs. Weldon Chan, who was due to leave hospital Tuesday following treatment for a nervous collapse, says she will take her five-year-old daughter with her to Ottawa.

Chan, who is believed to be in hiding in Eastern Canada, has been missing for several weeks. He left his Vancouver home saying he was going to Ottawa to appeal the deportation order. A warrant for his arrest has been issued.

In a recent message delivered to a newspaper here, Chan said he would forsake his family rather than leave Canada. The family has lived here for two years.

City Divers Set Record

Remaining nine members of the team which wrote naval diving history were PO George W. Ackerman, 35, formerly of Toronto; PO Julian G. Verschuere, 36; LS Charles F. Greengrass, 29, Winnipeg; LS Robert Larsen, 26, Toronto; LS Fred W. Olkovick, 29, Vancouver; AB Albert Lodge, 21, Winnipeg; AB Ernest W. Maddam, Edmonton; AB Ronald MacKenzie, 24, Welland; AB Padriac Dutton, 21.

The men slid to their daring feat down the anchor cable of HMCS Fortune, one of four Pacific Command minesweepers which had previously been engaged in joint manouevres with U.S. Navy ships in northern waters.

FEEL GOOD

Lt.-Cmdr. Ackerman said yesterday only a few hours after the return of the vessels "we feel very good about this.

"From the standpoint of proving the suitability of wet suit equipment for deep work in cold water the dive was a major accomplishment."

He said he believed the dive was a record for naval personnel of any nation.

"I have never heard of it being equalled, except by the two San Diego scientists, who I know personally," he stated.

Suits for the record dive were made by a British Columbia firm to specifications worked out at the diving unit here.

They were made of ¼-inch foam-neoprene and individually tailored to the diver who would use them.

They are designated as wet suits because the water actually penetrates the porous synthetic rubber garment so as to come in contact with the skin of the diver.

Advantage of the suits over those made of non-porous material is that they provide greater freedom of movement and, in some cases, are actually warmer.

Because portions of the three-piece suits overlap, the trunk of the body is actually covered with ⅝-inch of foam neoprene, but under the tremendous pressure at 175-feet this was compressed by half.

"We found that we were not cold in spite of the depth and the water temperature," Lt.-Cmdr. Ackerman said yesterday.

"Our safe time at the bottom was 15 minutes, but we stayed only about a minute because there was nothing to be gained by staying any longer.

USEFUL WORK

"We could easily have carried out useful work for the full 15-minute period."

Although the stay on the bottom lasted only a minute, the divers were submerged a total of 38 minutes including decompression time — a stay of nearly half an hour at a depth of 10 feet.

STANDARD TANKS

The men carried standard air tanks and mechanical lung, and wore special gloves to protect their hands.

The dive took place off the Alaskan coast one week ago yesterday and was a well-kept naval secret until the minesweepers docked at 2 p.m. yesterday.

Motherhood at 100?

Walking Champ, 55, Has 'Mastered Sex'

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON (AP)—A 55-year-old woman doctor said Tuesday that people can live to be 200 if they give up smoking, drinking, proteins, starch and sex.

The amazing Russian-born Dr. Barbara Moore twice in seven days has foot-slogged a tough 110-mile course to prove her physical fitness.

"Life with mastered sex — that's really the vital key to the success of my two marathons," she said in an interview.

"Of course I can't completely ignore sex, but I've mastered it so that there are no abnormal urges."

Asked her views on having children, she replied:

"I could have a baby now, but I prefer to wait until I'm 100.

"My husband knows that I have the body of a woman of 32, the vigor, stamina and endurance of a man of 24."

Her husband is a sculptor, Harry Moore. He is 46.

She said she had devoted many years to studying the secrets of living.

"I live for nature, knowledge, music and speed on a motorcycle," she said.

Dr. Moore said diet has had a lot to do with her strength and energy—which she demonstrated in her two walks.

She covered the 110 miles the second time in 26 hours, 34 minutes. The first march took longer.

"I eat no starch, no carbohydrates, no protein and no fibre," she said.

Her diet concentrates on fruit juices, water and honey.

"And I sleep only about two hours a day. I need no more.

"I derive nourishment from every atom of my tiny diet," she said, "which is why I need so little food."

'Santa' Offers Little Boy New Hand

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An anonymous New Yorker has offered to pay the full cost of the Christmas present little Mike Plaugher wants most — a left hand. Mike, who was born with only one hand, is six. Recently, his 5-year-old brother, Donnie, took the hand off a department store mannequin "as a Christmas present for Mike."

Mike's father, a radio and television repairman, has six other children and can't afford the $800 cost of an artificial hand.

Compulsory Arbitration Urged For Perishable Food Tie-Ups

Compulsory arbitration of labor disputes involving perishable farm products in cases where conciliation fails was called for yesterday by delegates at the B.C. Federation of Agriculture convention at the Empress Hotel. The provincial government was urged to put such disputes in the hands of a Supreme Court judge, with his findings binding on both parties.

B.C. Taxpayers Get Bill For 2,010 Forest Fires

Fighting 2,010 forest fires during the summer of this year cost taxpayers $768,000. The fires burned over 273,631 acres and did damage amounting to $2,212,418, a B.C. Forest Service spokesman reported last night.

'Lord Opened Side Of Plane for Me'

MONTOURSVILLE, Pa. (AP) — A twin-engined airliner, swinging away from the airport after trying an instrument approach, rammed a 1,400-foot mountain Tuesday in a snowstorm. Twenty-five of the 26 aboard were killed.

Louis Matarazzo, a passenger, was the lone survivor.

"The Lord opened my side of the plane and I was able to jump out," he said Tuesday night from his bed in a hospital at nearby Williamsport. "I fought my way through flames, past the wreckage."

Matarazzo, 35, of the Philadelphia suburb of Springfield, suffered severe burns and his eyes were covered with bandages as he talked.

"The hostess was just turning on the loudspeaker to tell us we were coming in," Matarazzo said. "All of a sudden the pilot seemed to race the motors and pull up. There was a crash . . . the plane burst and exploded."

Pro-Fluorides Challenged

Dr. Elizabeth Mahaffy, Victoria-Esquimalt medical health officer; Victoria physician, Dr. Hugh Borsman, and city dentist, Dr. W. W. McLuhan, have been challenged to debate fluoridation on a public platform with Dr. F. B. Exner of Seattle, who opposes it.

And Dr. Exner "will bring proof of his statements," Mrs. Lydia Arsens, 1427 Thurlow, said last night.

Ottawa Drops 82 Charges Against 24-Hour Garages

OTTAWA (CP)—The Ottawa Board of Control Tuesday agreed to drop 82 charges against service station operator Jack Cadieux for violating the city's 7 p.m. closing bylaw provided he pays a $1,312 fine imposed after his conviction on 16 similar charges.

Cadieux has begun serving a 240-day jail term rather than pay the fine. But his wife, who is expecting a child within the next 10 days, says she expects he will change his mind because she can't operate the service station alone.

"We don't want to have to pay the fine because that would be like admitting we're wrong," she said. "But I don't know what else we'll be able to do.

"This is a free country and they shouldn't pass a law that deprives kids of food," said Mrs. Cadieux. She has seven children ranging in age from six to 15.

Their service station in west end Britannia Heights had been open 24 hours a day until Cadieux's conviction.

Fluoride Bid Doomed?

NEW YORK (CP)—A proposal that New York City's water supply should be fluoridated appears likely to be killed when it reaches the city's board of estimate. Five members of the eight-man board have announced that they will oppose fluoridation when they are asked to decide on a report on its cost.

Food Price Spreads

THE voluminous report of the federal royal commission of inquiry into food price spreads is a bit like the shopping bag of the boy who, sent to the store for bread, returns with a wide assortment of interesting packages—but no bread.

The commission was appointed primarily to find out whether or not the differences between prices paid to producers and those charged to consumers are fair and reasonable. After two years of inquiry it was unable to produce an answer to that fundamental question, explaining that "We know of no objective test." If the commission with its virtually unlimited authority to travel, probe, call witnesses and ask questions could find no way of determining what are fair and reasonable mark-ups on food items, much of its effort seems to have been wasted.

In that respect—and it is perhaps the most important one—the report is a disappointment to buyers and producers alike. The commission redeems itself to some extent, however, by presenting much helpful information and advice on the subject of food price trends and merchandising practices, and the relationship of the latter to the former. It demonstrates that the primary producers, far from enjoying a larger share of the profits of the food trade, are on average worse off than they were ten years ago. If there is any undue profit-taking — and the commission does not exactly say so—the farmer isn't in on it. The 20 per cent rise in food prices since 1949 is attributed mainly to higher cost of processing, packaging and promotion.

What remedies does the commission suggest? None by way of government regulation or control; but rather voluntary action on the part of the trade to get rid of unnecessary frills and gimmicks, wider publication of information as to what influences price spreads, and greater alertness on the part of buyers.

There is a great deal more than that in the exhaustive report, including suggestions for a variety of new government information and "watchdog" services; but in essence what the report seems to be saying is simply that it is up to traders to give fair value and to buyers to see that they get it. Cynical readers may be excused for dismissing this self-evident conclusion with the tart comment, "This is where we came in."

The Covetous Eye

WHEN Victoria interests headed by Mayor Scurrah made bids to Ottawa on behalf of local shipbuilders they did so on a broad west coast basis, putting in a plea for all B.C. shipyards. Vancouver has not returned the compliment. Its mayor is currently in Ottawa on a similar mission, but instead of a unified front on west coast problems he looks enviously at Victoria.

Mayor Alsbury would like to poach on the preserves of this area. He wants to share the naval refit work — comparatively incidental as Mayor Scurrah says in relation to the larger ship orders the industry requires—which belongs to this area. Any such diversion would of course deepen the depression into which local shipbuilding has sunk.

The Vancouver chief magistrate forgets or is unaware that the Victoria yards came into being because there was a naval station here, in order to sustain naval defence by doing its repair, maintenance and refit work. One depended on the other, and the close association and propinquity of the local yards is an important factor in the work which periodically has to be done. It is fallacious to claim that Vancouver yards are in a position to do this work with equal facility.

Mayor Alsbury also casts a covetous look at the naval dockyard itself, again apparently oblivious to naval affairs and regardless of the thousands of Victorians who derive their livelihood therefrom. All nations with sizable navies have naval dockyards because there are certain specialized jobs which invite technical naval employment, uniformed or civilan; these complement the shipbuilding industry.

In any case the cure for west coast shipbuilding problems is not to strip this area of its yards and workmen and transfer them to Vancouver. Perhaps that is what Mayor Alsbury would like, but Victoria has no intention of permitting this parochial outlook to rob it of what by long and warranted association is part and parcel of its local scene. The west coast shipbuilding industry has worthwhile claims to put before the Ottawa government, but not at the expense of this area so that Vancouver may reap the benefit.

Circulating Anyway

FINANCE MINISTER FLEMING announced on Tuesday part of the means whereby he will meet $300,000,000 in federal debt maturing on December 15, the last funded obligation of the treasury of any size during 1959. The CNR is to borrow $300,000,000, and repay advances it has received from the federal treasury on capital account; and the treasury will guarantee the new CNR bonds as it has done with earlier railway loans. Presumably Mr. Fleming will also have available some at least of the public's investment in the new savings bond issue floated in November, and whatever cash may be on hand to the treasury from uncommitted revenue accruals.

The operation is an interesting one on several counts. Superficially the treasury is meeting its last big obligation of the year on debt account without direct recourse to fresh borrowing. It is true that it guarantees in full the principle and interest on the new CNR loan, but also it receives back from the railway some at least of the cash advances it has made to it on capital account. Superficially also the Dominion lifts up a three per cent issue; and the CNR incurs a 5½ per cent one, almost on even terms with the last direct federal borrowing. The public will receive cash for the maturing 3 per cent federal bonds; but likewise the public is asked to furnish the cash which the CNR thus will be borrowing. The CNR will replace the notes to the treasury by bonds in the hands of investors.

In the last analysis, the treasury underwrites the obligations of the CNR over its operating returns, which of late have been in the red. The new CNR loan is federally guaranteed and its cost will be 5.85 per cent, compared with the short term federal issue which is being retired, with higher carrying charges in proportion. While the $300,000,000 concerned will still be debt backed by the taxpayers at least it can be said to be circulating.

Interpreting the News

Infiltration in Kabul

By PHIL NEWSOM
(UPI Foreign Editor)

WHEN President Eisenhower visits Kabul, capital of Afghanistan, on his 11-nation tour next month the magnificence of its mountain setting may remind him of Colorado Springs. But Kabul's magnificence ends with its view of the snow-capped Hindu Kush mountains.

It is a muddy, dark-brown city with a few modern shops. Russian buses and cars dominate its streets, which also were paved by the Russians. Green lawns and attractive flower beds are hidden behind walled compounds.

Afghanistan is one of five nations the president will visit which have common boundaries with the iron curtain. Of them all, Afghanistan is the closest to becoming a Russian satellite.

The reasons are many. One is the country's geographical location which makes it a buffer between Russia and India and Pakistan, and open to Soviet infiltration. At the same time, Afghan-Pakistan relations have been strained over Afghanistan's demand for a free Pathan state which would include some of Pakistan's northwest territory.

As is often the case, the real reason for Afghanistan's present close relations with Russia is economic. Afghanistan has received economic aid from Russia and the United States, but by far the greatest amount has come from Russia which has granted the country a $100,000,000 loan and flooded it with Russian experts of all categories.

In contrast U.S. aid, while steady, has amounted to $5,000,000 or $7,000,000 per year.

Russian experts assist in Afghan oil explorations. Russian engineers build power and irrigation projects, and drive a tunnel through the Hindu Kush mountains, bringing closer Afghanistan's southern and northern provinces by nearly 150 miles. Other Russian aid builds airports, cement factories and metal works.

Thinking Aloud

". . . of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

LAST week there was mention in this space of the interesting epitaphs one finds in old churchyards.

That genial sleuth of historic things, Cecil Clark, has extracted from a book called, I think "The Red Tunic," some military memos that adorn gravestones.

He showed them to me and in turn I show them to you. They may take your mind off mundane matters for a few moments.

Hearken to this, a hero's word: "Billeted by death, I quartered here remain; and when the trumpet sounds I'll rise and march again."

And that, mind you, at the age of 112 years, from a Staffordshire worthy who received a musket shot in his thigh at the taking of Gibraltar in 1704.

Of another 112-year-old veteran, who lies at Chelsea Hospital, it is said:

Here lies William Hiseland
His health hale and hearty
His memory exact and ready
In stature
He exceeded the military size and What rendered his age still more patriarchal
When above a hundred years old
He took unto him a wife!

In Suffolk, at Bury St. Edmonds, is the following tribute to a sergeant major of the Grenadier Guards:

A husband, father, comrade, friend sincere,
A British soldier brave lies buried here.

And listen to this one, to a Sussex girl, an Amazon of the long ago:

Phoebe Hessel
Who was born at Stepney in the year 1713
She served for many years as a private soldier in the Fifth Regiment of Foot in different parts of Europe and in the year 1745 fought at the battle of Fontenoy, where she received a bayonet wound in her arm. Her long life, which commenced in the reign of Queen Anne, extended to that King George IV, by whose munificence she received comfort and support in her latter days. She died at Brighton, December 12, 1821, aged 108.

John Duncan, sergeant in the 7th Light Dragoons, had this injunction inscribed on his stone:

Reader, in time prepare to follow me,
As my route was, so thine will surely be.

Of another old warrior, one Thomas Fletcher, it is written:

Here sleeps in peace a Hampshire grenadier,
Who caught his death by drinking cold small beer.
Soldiers! Take heed from his untimely fall,
And when you're hot, drink strong or none at all.

Up north in a Scottish churchyard there is disclosed that

Here lies the body of Alexander McPherson,
Who was a very extraordinary person;
He was two yards high in his stocking feet
And kept his accoutrements clean and sweet;
He was slew
At the battle of Waterloo
Plumb through
The gullet; it went in at his throat
And came out at the back of his coat.

And on the tombstone of a general who died of wounds received in battle at Nordlingen, it says:

Stop, traveller, thou treadest

Aid for 'Have Nots'

Canada Backs World Food Bank

By PETER DEMPSON, from Ottawa

THE Canadian government has again proposed the setting up of an International Food Bank, but for some strange reason the idea isn't catching on. Why it hasn't is a mystery. Certainly there is merit to it.

Most countries, with the exception of the Communist nations, agree a food bank could prove beneficial. But, outside of Canada, the initiative to get such an organization started seems to be lacking.

The Food and Agriculture Organization, a United Nations agency, has done little to foster it. The North Atlantic Treaty Council has done even less.

The latest proposal for a food bank has come from Hon. Douglas Harkness, minister of agriculture. He views it as a means by which "nationally-held surpluses" could be "mobilized".

And, through a co-ordination of bilateral programs, he says, an "effective utilization" of these surpluses could be carried out for the welfare of mankind.

Mr. Harkness was one of the principal speakers at the Dominion-Provincial agricultural conference in Ottawa, and the food bank idea was emphasized by him. Like Prime Minister Diefenbaker, he believes it's something that should be proceeded with as soon as possible.

"Such joint international action need not necessarily mean a loss of identity of assistance provided by individual countries," he says. "National programs could continue to be controlled in accordance with individual legislation, and existing international agreements, having regard to the FAO principles of surplus disposal."

Mr. Harkness thinks the food bank could provide other useful functions. It could act as a clearing house for information on food. This would apply to existing stocks and disposal programs, and also to current and future food requirements of countries and regions.

It could also keep tab on national agricultural policies for the assistance of nations that become members of the bank.

The object of an international food bank is a worthy one. It is to attain a better distribution of food throughout the world. In the process, "have-not" countries such as those in south and southeast Asia, in Africa, in parts of South America would be aided without injury to farmers in areas where surpluses are produced.

The idea of a food bank or "food for peace" isn't new. It's been proposed in one form or another since October, 1945, when Sir John Boyd Orr, first director-general of FAO, outlined his concept of such an organization.

The matter was first raised by Canada at the NATO Council meeting in Paris in December, 1957. Both Mr. Diefenbaker and Hon. George Pearkes, Minister of Defence, went on record as strongly favoring it.

The prime minister envisaged the establishment of a large food stockpile in Europe, to be used in case of war. The plan would help producers such as Canada and the United States to get rid of surpluses. The cost would be shared by all NATO partners.

To that extent, it would be less burdensome on Canadian and U.S. taxpayers than a disposal program conducted by each country individually. But a NATO food bank would be restrictive in scope. It would not be as beneficial as a world food bank, such as is now proposed by Canada.

An international food bank would benefit not only surplus producers but undernourished countries as well. Under this plan, the food would not be stockpiled indefinitely. It would be sent to countries needing it.

The cost of operating such a food bank could be financed through the United Nations. But Communist countries would have to be sold on the idea.

"Have-not" nations could get the food as an outright gift. Others, in better financial circumstances, should be made to pay. Care would have to be taken not to upset ordinary commercial markets. This could happen if individual countries were to embark unilaterally on "give-away" programs.

Canada has already announced it is prepared to contribute $10,000,000 worth of wheat flour to a world food bank. But until such a bank exists the contribution is meaningless.

Mr. Harkness would like to see FAO explore the idea of a food bank and make some practical recommendations for the "effective use" of food reserves. This makes sense. As he points out:

"Exporting and importing countries alike should share in the responsibilities."

Diplomatic Doings

Eating for One's Country

By CLYDE BLACKBURN

UNITED KINGDOM Information Office branch heads from eight Canadian cities outside of Ottawa were in the capital last week for a conference. Nothing unusual about that but I was surprised to know our U.K. friends were so interested in Canada and so widely represented here.

Then I looked over the list and found Sir Saville Garner, U.K. High Commissioner to Canada has close to 60 officials of diplomatic rank on his staff, including these information officers.

Going further I discovered that Canadian High Commissioner George Drew in London has almost exactly the same number of diplomatic officials on his staff, mostly in London.

The diplomatic exchange business has grown mightily since the end of 1927 when it began to flower seriously. There are more than 500 foreign diplomatic officials in Canada, and probably as many more clerical and other workers not on the diplomatic list.

And Canada has just about the same number abroad in 37 embassies and a score more diplomatic missions such as legations, high commissionerships, trade commissionerships and consulates.

There are just about the same numbers and types of foreign missions in Canada because this is a sort of protocol exchange system.

Two countries decide on the type of diplomatic relations they wish. They may be embassies, or legations (headed by a minister) or consulates or just a trade commissioner post.

An ambassador has access to the head of state while a minister deals with the foreign minister. Mission heads in Commonwealth countries are called high commissioners but they have the rank of ambassador and may be called "excellency."

Canada's biggest foreign mission is in the United States, centred in Washington under Ambassador Arnold Heeney. There are about 60 diplomatic officials, some of them posted to the larger cities from coast to coast.

And the biggest foreign mission in Canada is that from the United States, which has about 90 accredited at the moment.

Russia, notorious for having heavily-manned missions abroad, is only fourth in Canada with about 25, after the U.S., U.K., and France, which has two or three more than Russia. Just now the so-called satellite countries have 33 accredited diplomats in Canada to our 22 in Communist capitals outside Russia.

Trade developments, immigration, shipping and personal travel volume probably are the main considerations which prompt countries to exchange diplomats. In many cases, although not so much in Canada, a great consideration is the making of friends and influencing people.

Canada has no difficulties of any consequence with any country and it not likely to have, and so is a happy place for diplomats. There is a popular idea that diplomats spend much of their time entertaining each other at cocktail parties and dinners, and that sort of activity does occupy a large part of their working time.

During the war a head of a commonwealth mission, a lusty, robust and jolly man, told me his job seemed to be "to eat and drink for my country." He must have done other things, too, because he was knighted a short time later.

Entertaining is a chore for diplomats but they must make it seem a pleasure; and so a diplomat, and his wife, must be good actors. Incidentally they get their liquor for about one-quarter of what it costs us, because it is tax-free.

From the Scriptures

Thou shalt not covet — Exodus, 20:7.

The Packsack

Of GREGORY CLARK

THE faith of young wives in their young husbands was never more effectively demonstrated than in the case of a young couple of my acquaintance who recently moved to New York City as their place of abode, and had to pass their drivers' licence tests in order to be able to drive their car, which they took with them.

On applying for their licences, they were given by the police department charged with this responsibility a small book packed stiff with the rules governing traffic in that great metropolis. Upon digesting the contents of this manual, my young friends reported to the office of the police for their tests.

After a cursory oral examination, the two were handed leaflets on which were a number of questions to be answered "yes" or "no."

There were such questions as: "Is the penalty for failing to signal a right-hand turn $10?"

This just happened to be one of the questions the young wife had not boned up. So, out of the corner of her eye, she watched her husband. And where he put the X, she put the X. Finding this to be a far more immediate method of answering the questions, she just kept on peeping, and filled in all the X's in accordance with her husband's.

"I cheated," said the wife, cosily, as they drove home, confessing her sin.

"Aw, no!" wailed the husband. "All the papers were different!"

Second time round, after duly digesting the manual, the young lady got her licence.

With the Classics

She's somewhere in the sunlight strong,
Her tears are in the falling rain;
She calls me in the wind's soft song,
And with the flowers she comes again.

Yon bird is but her messenger,
The moon is but her silver car;
Yea, sun and moon are sent by her,
And every wistful waiting star.

RICHARD LE GALLIENNE.

Space Films Vanish

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — A movie camera soared 300 miles into space Tuesday in the nose cone of a Thor missile but was lost at sea with perhaps the first high-altitude color pictures of the earth.

Recovery ships and planes gave up a search for the camera after hunting nearly two hours in waters off the West Indies island of Antigua.

The heaviest 24-hour snowfall in United States' records dumped 76 inches at Silver Lake, Colo., in April, 1991.

Ex-Castro Pal on Trial

HAVANA (AP) — Stretcher-bearers carried a weeping former associate of Fidel Castro before a military tribunal Tuesday to defend himself against a possible death sentence. He is accused of counter-revolutionary activity.

Wall Street At Highest In 3 Months

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market swept to its highest on average in nearly three months under the leadership of steel and chemical shares.

U.S. Steel paced its group with an advance of 2⅜, while Republic was up 2 and Jones and Laughlin 1⅝. Allied Chemical was the best in that section, soaring 4 to 120½. Union Carbide was up 1⅞.

Other groups on the upside were rubber, nonferrous metals, oils, airlines and tobaccos. Electronics had some fair gains, but more and bigger losses.

American Motors was most active stock for the second straight day, closing off 2 at 84½ on 152,900 shares. The compact car maker, whose directors voted a three-for-one-stock split Monday, opened with a jump of 5½ but gradually weakened.

Dip in Papers

MONTREAL (CP) — Prices shaded off across the board.

Steels nudged higher in late trading, led by Ontario Steel, up 1⅝ at 23.

Best industrial winner during the day was Anglo-Canadian Pulp and Paper, which jumped a whopping 8⅝ points at 49½ on a small turn over.

General Dynamics was next in line with a two-point gain at 49, and Dominion Stores went ahead one point at 52¾.

Cockshutt was the biggest loser, falling ¾ at 19¾, followed by Bank of Nova Scotia, which lost ½ at 70.

Mines were quiet with only a few of the lower-priced issues doing any active trading. International Nickel won ⅝ at 99¾. Senior uraniums were mixed to lower. Algom went up ¼ at 11⅛, while Consolidated Denison was off 10 cents at $9.75. Gunnar dropped 20 cents and closed at $9.30.

Garden Notes

Bulbs Take Patience

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

Every year, in September and October, thousands of tulip, hyacinth, daffodil and narcissus bulbs are purchased and potted up for forcing in the hope of bringing some color and fragrance into the house during the dull days of winter. And every year, fully half of these optimistic plantings come to nothing.

The bulbs all grow, it is true, for it is almost impossible to keep a healthy bulb from making growth, but only too often, no blooms appear, or the whole plant packs up and quits when still only a few inches tall. And the reason for these failures in almost every case is simply impatience. The pots are brought from their cool storage into the warm living room far too soon.

The indoor gardener has to decide whether she wants the bulbs around the house "for company" during their growing period, or whether she wants to make a real success of their blooming—she can't have it both ways, except with just a very few varieties, notably the Cragford and Paper White narcissus, the Soliel d'Or narcissus, and the Chinese Sacred Lily, which is also a narcissus. All the others need a really prolonged rooting period under low temperature conditions for successful blooming.

Eight weeks of cold darkness is about the absolute minimum period required for most of our forcing bulbs, but what doesn't seem to be generally understood is that this is a minimum, and no harm can come to the bulbs by leaving them for a much longer time. In fact, within reasonable limits, the longer you leave them in the cold, the better blooms you will have.

If you are not in any particular hurry for your flowers, I would say the best plan is to leave them in the cold darkness until the flowering stem is well up out of the bulb, for they need no warmth nor light of any kind until the buds appear. Even then, if you have electric light in the fruit cellar or other cool place where they are stored, they can be brought along to the flowering stage, complete with green leaves, without ever having seen daylight, simply by leaving the overhead light turned on for nine hours per day.

Growth is very slow in cool storage, and the flowering stems and buds develop at a snail's pace. Actually, this is an advantage in many ways, for you can look upon your store of potted bulbs as a "bank" from which you can withdraw flowering plants whenever you wish. Growth speeds up enormously under higher temperatures, and plants with flowering stems and buds formed should be in full bloom within three days after bringing them into the warmth. By drawing upon the resources of your plant "bank," you could fill the house with flowers for a wedding reception or other gala occasion.

Watering the bulbs while in cold storage seems to pose a lot of problems for the novice grower. When the pots of bulbs are stored in an outdoor trench filled with straw or peat, they shouldn't need any interim watering at all. Bulbs which are not so "plunged," though, will almost always need some water in varying amounts.

In a darkened coldframe outdoors, where the temperature is really low, one interim watering halfway through the rooting period should do the trick. In the cool basement, more will be needed, but if anything, err a little on the dry side. Always feel the soil first, and give water only when the surface is definitely drying out. If saucers are used under the pots, go back an hour after watering to empty them of any dregs.

Too Grotesque for Adults

Slapping, Poking 'Stooges' Consigned to Children

NEW YORK (UPI) — Have your children started playing that popular new game, "The Three Stooges"?

It's the game where they slap each other's skull, poke fingers at the eyes by day and at night sometimes wake up screaming.

The name is a memorial to a trio of so-called comedians whose filmed TV misdeeds, apparently too grotesque for adult TV, have been consigned to the "kiddy TV show" status.

I'm told by the syndicator, Screen Gems, that 135 stations now carry the show. That's success by some TV standards.

Some recent episodes have dealt with the horrors of having a tooth pulled, ghoulish preparations for a prison hanging and a series of air raids, all violent enough to unravel nearly all the good stuff that TV can and does offer the kids.

Why let the youngsters watch if it's so bad? Well, most parents I know who have seen the "Stooges" in action have declared the show off-limits.

But this, of course, promptly makes the show an attractive nuisance. The kids sneak a peek at home or go to a sympathetic pal's house to watch, or hear about it from schoolmates. It has become a disciplinary problelm, this TV show, as keeping kids away from the "Stooges" is about as important as keeping them away from matches.

I'd say nothing on TV today is as destructive as "The Three Stooges" and nothing on TV today can compare with it for sheer adult irresponsibility. My compliments to the TV stations who manage to get along without the "Stooges" and those stomach-turning, psyche-searing antics.

The Petit-Point Statement

I have in front of me the statement of the American Broadcasting Company which ends with the ringing words: "We have concluded our investigation with renewed faith and confidence in Dick Clark's integrity." It's declarations like that that renew any man's faith.

I want ABC to know that I'm having the whole statement done in petit-point suitable for framing and we're hanging it on the wall right under "God Bless Our Happy Home" and a little to the left of "Think." The copy boys will be instructed to salute it and we shall light a candle under it on Father's Day.

Lately, CBS has subtly changed its stand on canned laughter. Now they're talking, over there, about announcing that it's canned; originally, they were going to get rid of it altogether. That leads me to a myth that has grown up over the years to the point where it's accepted as gospel. That is that people at home simply can't laugh in an empty room unless spurred by studio or canned laughter out of the box.

It's a great theory, fully time-tested, stoutly believed by the best people, sworn to by notaries and all that. The only trouble is, it isn't true. If it's funny, people will bellow with laughter without any spurs or accompaniment. If it isn't, no amount of canned laughter will help a bit.

Now the Federal Trade Commission is going to investigate Colgate, the toothpaste which protects your teeth from baseballs. The suspicion has been advanced that it doesn't. While you're at it, FTC, I wish you'd look into that sparkplug which pulls 10 water skiers. I have information that it will really pull only nine water skiers. By George, we can't go selling sparkplugs under false pretenses like that. Man buys a sparkplug and he jolly well wants to know that his wife and children are safe back there on those water skis just as a man ought to be able to go to work after brushing his teeth fully secure in the knowledge that no baseball can get at him.

Wed for Money And Found Love

By RUDOLF FLESCH

Middle-aged women ought to be interested in the story of Mary Anne, the wife of Benjamin Disraeli, Queen Victoria's prime minister.

Mary Anne met Disraeli at a party in 1832. She was 40 at the time, the wife of Mr. Wyndham Lewis, a well-to-do member of Parliament. Disraeli was 27, a bright young Jew who had written two mildly-successful novels.

The Wyndham Lewises "took up" young Mr. Disraeli. Within five years he was elected to Parliament as the second member from the district represented by Mr. Lewis. Unfortunately, on the very day Disraeli made his famous maiden speech in Parliament, M. Lewis died.

Mrs. Lewis, by now 45, never had been beautiful. But she had a charming way of chattering and lots of black curls. After three months Disraeli proposed to her; soon after the mourning period was over, they were married. She was 47 by then, he was 34.

They were both quite frank about the fact that Disraeli had married her for her money and political influence. But litle by little, their marriage turned into one of the great love affairs of history. For the rest of their lives, they adored each other. She was a perfect wife and he was a perfect husband.

Meanwhile, he pursued his incredible, unique career. The impossible, gaudily dressed young Jew became the leader of the Tories, chancellor of the exchequer and, finally, prime minister. (He was 62 by then and she was 75.)

After she died, he found the following note she had written to him: "And now farewell, my dear Dizzy. Do not live alone, dearest. Some one I earnestly hope you may find as attached to you as your own devoted Mary Anne."

He didn't. He mourned her for the rest of his life.

HOW YOUR LIVER BILE HELPS BREAK DOWN FATS

IN THE DIGESTIVE TRACT

Laboratory tests have now proved that liver bile emulsifies fats . . . actually breaks them down. It is an established fact that when liver bile is added to fatty solids, the fats are broken down and form a smooth, easy-flowing mix.

In your digestive tract, liver bile helps break down fats the same way. Many of the foods you eat reach the digestive tract as undigested fatty solids. Your golden liver bile helps break down these fats . . . for easier and more complete digestion.

Carter's Little Liver Pills' exclusive formula of vegetable ingredients relieves irregularity gently and effectively. At the same time, it actually improves the flow of liver bile needed to break down fats in your digestive tract.

So when you feel sluggish, headachy, nervous and need a laxative, take Carter's Little Liver Pills.

Remember, Carter's not only relieve irregularity, but actually improve the flow of liver bile. Get Carter's Little Liver Pills today!

Canadians Seek Share

There's Gold In Sierras

Fifty-nine Canadian athletes will be looking for gold in Squaw Valley, Calif., next February — gold medals in the VIII Olympic winter games.

The Canadian Olympic Association will provide the $40,000 grub-stake, thanks to federal, provincial and municipal donations and to gifts from the public.

Since 1924, when the first winter games were held in Chamonix, France, Canada has won six gold, three second and nine bronze medals in seven meetings.

That gives this country eighth place among all the nations competing in hundreds of events.

Frank Shaughnessy of Montreal, president of the International baseball league who will be general manager of Canada's team in Squaw Valley, feels members can win gold first-place medals in figure skating, skiing and hockey.

Possible Medal Winners

He names as possible winners the pairs skating team of Barbara Wagner and Robert Paul, the sister-brother pairs entry of Otto and Maria Jelinek, Donald Jackson in men's figure skating, Anne Heggtveit in skiing and Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen in the hockey tournament.

More than 800 athletes from 34 nations are expected to take part and some 35,000 sport enthusiasts are anticipated for each of the 11 days of competition.

The games open at Squaw Valley and Lake Tahoe, seven miles away in the heart of the Sierra Nevada range, on Feb. 18 and cartoon magnate Walt Disney has arranged elaborate opening and closing ceremonies involving athletes, bands, choirs, balloons and doves in the thousands.

Games area includes more than 6,000 acres of land, of which 1,000 acres will become a new, permanent park and winter sport area when the games are completed.

Huge Building Program

Being built for the games are a 9,000-seat, $3,500,000 ice arena, Olympic village, three ski jumps, three double chair lifts and even a data processing centre.

The data centre will house a giant IBM Ramac computer, which will process scores of all events as they progress and provide immediate results for spectators and the hundreds of newsmen who have already expressed intention to attend.

Information on tickets and housing can be obtained by writing the Olympic Winter Games, San Francisco 5, Calif.

In addition, games officials and Greyhound Cup have announced that ticket reservation forms, day-to-day schedules and housing and transportation information is available from all Greyhound agents.

Three classes of tickets are available from Greyhound agents—access to the entire spectator area except the arena at $7.50 daily or $60 for the 11 days, and access to all snow competitions plus reserved bleacher seats in the arena at $200 for the 11 days.

Injured Riggin Stars As Edmonton Nears Travelling Cougars

EDMONTON—Goalie Dennis Riggin continued to head a recent Western Hockey League upsurge by Edmonton Flyers as he blocked 45 shots last night and shook off effects of a third-period injury in a 4-3 win over Winnipeg Warriors.

Solid work by Riggin enabled Flyers to strengthen their grip on fourth place. Flyers are now only three points behind second-place Victoria Cougars and Seattle Totems.

Riggin suffered a badly-cut mouth with five minutes left in the game when Winnipeg's Red Johansen blazed a shot from the blue line that bounced from the goalie's stick and struck him in the mouth before ending up in the net.

The game was delayed for 10 minutes while Riggin was patched up but he returned to hold off the Warriors even though opposing goalie Al Rollins was yanked in the final minute for a sixth forward.

SCORES WINNER

Stu McNeill's fourth goal of the season proved to be the winner for Edmonton. Other goals came from Roger Dejordy, Don Poile and Warren Hynes.

Gerry Brisson, Barry Ross and Johansen scored the Winnipeg goals.

Winnipeg outshot Edmonton 48-33 but had difficulty beating Riggin, who blocked 17 shots in the first period alone. He turned back 14 in each of the final periods.

Dejordy and Poile gave Edmonton a 2-0 first-period lead and Hynes increased the margin at 14.01 of the second. Brisson, who scored 38 goals as a rookie last year, used an Edmonton defenceman as a screen to make it 3-1 three minutes later.

Ross poked in Norm Waslawski's rebound early in the third to put Warriors back in the game. McNeill scored the winner at 5.29 when he came from behind the net to beat Rollins with a quick shot.

Games tonight will see Victoria attempt to take over second, when Cougars meet Spokane in the U.S. city, and Edmonton play at Calgary.

Totem Mates Crowd Fielder

Slick centre Guyle Fielder of Seattle Totems is having difficulty making headway in his bid for a fourth straight Western Hockey League scoring championship because three of his mates have set a red-hot pace for 21 games.

Last week Fielder played in three games and collected four points. He moved up one notch from his previous week's standing but remains a point behind league-leader Bill MacFarland of Seattle.

MacFarland had only two points last week, giving him 34 on 14 goals and 20 assists. Fielder has 15 goals and 18 assists for a second-place tie with mates Marc Boileau and Rudy Filion.

Boileau and Filion each had two points last week. The former has identical total to Fielder while Filion has 13 goals and 20 assists.

Never a reputed goal-scorer, Fielder shares the lead in that department with Boileau and Spokane's Al Johnson while MacFarland, Filion and Vancouver's Eddie Dorohoy top the assist column with 20.

Dorohoy breaks Seattle's monopoly of scoring leaders. The colorful centre, second in scoring to Fielder last year, has 31 points.

Kramer Signs Alex Olmedo To Professional Tennis Pact

Promoter Jack Kramer, rebuffed Tuesday when Australian Neale Fraser rejected an offer of $45,000 to turn professional, has struck at amateur tennis again.

Kramer's latest acquisition is Alex Olmedo, the Peruvian star who regained the Davis Cup for the United States in 1958 and then followed it up with a mediocre season this year, brightened only by a Wimbledon win.

Olmedo, it was reported, signed for a guarantee in excess of $35,000 for one year. His lawyer said that "by conservative estimate" Olmedo stands to earn $50,000 in his first pro year.

First professional appearance for Olmedo will be in Melbourne Dec. 26 and his pro debut in the United States will be in Los Angeles Jan. 29.

Giants Trade for Pitching; Other Big Deals Brewing

Major league baseball clubs may be going to get some action out of the new inter-league trading rule after all.

Instituted this year, the rule permits inter-league trading between Nov. 21 and Dec. 15 but there was little done about it until late Monday night.

It brought the first big deal, the New York Giants apparently getting something done about their need for pitching by obtaining Billy O'Dell, young southpaw ace, and Billy Loes, righthanded relief pitcher, from Baltimore Orioles.

In exchange, the Giants sent Jackie Brandt, a fine outfielder; Gordon Jones, a relief pitcher with a mediocre record, and Roger McCardell, a catcher who played with Phoenix of the Pacific Coast League last season.

O'Dell won 14 games in 1958 and hurled with notable success in the all-star game. A bad back somewhat impaired his effectiveness last season but his 10-12 won-lost record was compensated for by a fine 2.94 earned-run average. He is 26.

The Giants, however, felt that the temperamental Loes was almost as big an acquisition. They suffered last season because of lack of good relief pitching and Loes is one of the best at that job when he has a mind to pitch.

HOT PITCHER

Loes, usually termed as eccentric, was once a bright Brooklyn prospect before going to the Orioles, who traded him last spring to Washington. Loes told the Senators he had a sore arm and was returned to Baltimore. There, he was the hottest relief pitcher in the major leagues for the first half of the season, then cooled off and wound up 4-7. He is 29.

Brandt batted .270 last season, hit 12 home runs and batted in 57 runs while playing in 137 games.

Yesterday, Chicago Cubs sent veteran outfielder Bobby Thomson to Boston Red Sox in return for pitcher Al Schroll, who has yet to establish himself as a major league player.

It was the second deal between the Sox and Cubs. Earlier, the Cubs had sent pitcher Dave Hillman and first baseman Jim Marshall to Boston to get first baseman Dick Gernert.

MORE DEALS

Other big deals were reported nearing competion. The Los Angeles Dodgers are after Roy Sievers, slugging Washington outfielder. They are prepared to give up southpaw Danny McDevitt and shortstop Don Zimmer but the Senators, it's said, are holding out for centrefielder Don Demeter.

The New York Yankees were reported to have offered second baseman Gil McDougald and rightfielder Hank Bauer to Milwaukee Braves for Warren Spahn, 20-game winner for 10 years in the National League.

The Braves were said to have asked that the Yankees throw in Fritz Brickell, a shortstop.

A deal said to be already made would see outfielder Bob Nieman going from Baltimore to St. Louis in exchange for catcher-outfielder Gene Green and minor-league catcher Chuck Staniland. And both Detroit Tigers and Cleveland Indians are said to be interested in Chico Fernandez, Philadelphia shortstop.

Also hanging fire is a deal between the Indians and Chicago White Sox. The White Sox have been offered outfielder Minnie Minoso for third baseman Rubba Phillips and catcher John Romano but want another player thrown in.

Winnipeg Aldermen Veto Bomber Fete

WINNIPEG (CP) — City council Monday decided not to tender a luncheon or banquet to the Grey Cup champion Blue Bombers.

Mayor Stephen Juba said he felt any reception in honor of the team should be held before the American players leave the city for the winter.

However, a motion asking the mayor to arrange a luncheon or dinner and also authorizing him to present city rings or other mementos to the players was defeated.

When the vote was taken seven aldermen voted for the reception and six against it. However, the motion, calling for the expenditure of a sum not included in this year's budget, required a clear majority vote of full council, 10 of the 18 votes.

Horses' Names Must Be Changed

'Rabbit Mouth' Too Rough

OTTAWA (CP)—The power of the Ontario Racing Commission to order a horse's name changed—and, if it isn't, to bar the horse from racing—was confirmed Tuesday by the Supreme Court of Canada.

The court dismissed an appeal by William Morrissey, Toronto breeder and owner, against a commission order in May, 1957, that the names of six of his horses be changed.

The horses were Hot Ice, Stole the Ring, Red Nose Clown, Rabbit Mouth, Irene's Orphan and Into the Grape.

The commission contended that these names were chosen to cast ridicule on Fred Orpen, retired owner of the old Long Branch track near Toronto, with whom Morrissey had a dispute in 1946.

R. N. Starr, counsel for the racing commission, told the Supreme Court when the appeal was heard in October, that "all you need to do is look at a photo of Orpen to see why he got the name 'Rabbit Mouth.'"

"What about Red Nose Clown?" asked Mr. Justice Robert Taschereau, presiding judge on a five-member panel that heard the appeal.

"Same thing," Mr. Starr said. "The others are the same and one is wicked—Irene's Orphan."

Mr. Starr referred to an affidavit signed by Mona H. Rundle, secretary-treasurer of the racing commission, which said Orpen has a daughter named Irene, that she has a child, was divorced and later remarried.

TORONTO (CP) — Racehorse owner William Morrissey says he will not change the names of six racehorses despite a ruling by the Supreme Court of Canada which turned down his appeal against an Ontario Racing Commission order.

Belmont established themselves yesterday as a definite threat to the perennial leaders by edging Vic High 31-30 in an exciting game played at Belmont.

Winners led 18-17 at the half and were ahead 31-26 in the dying minutes. Vic High came to within a point, called two quick time-outs to save time and had a shot in the air when the game ended.

AT THE 19th

With Harry Young

I know of several four ball groups in this city who could do with the services of a chartered accountant to keep the tally for them.

The number and variety of wagers made in the round, by one group include Nassaus on first and second ball, and also on best ball; singles between each participant in the four; canastas and "eggs" which are doubled or trebled for birdies and eagles respectively.

In case any of these terms are not understood, nassaus are wagers based on the first and second nines and also on the match; "eggs" are taken by anyone who wins a hole outright, and sometimes they may be cumulative one hole to another; canastas are won by the person nearest the hole and on the green at a par three hole.

Under such a system of course everyone has to hole out, and the time taken to sort out the situation at the end of each hole causes a delay in driving off from the next tee. Yet some people wonder why it now takes over four hours to complete a round when the course is busy.

I met one usually brisk player who found himself landed into one of the "comptometer" matches the other day.

"This is worse than being at work," he said.

The professional team of Roy Chappell and Ron MacLeod took a second bite at the cherry Sunday at Uplands and held stoutly on to their city open buttons.

The redoubtable Colwood pair, Vic Painter and Bill McColl who had finished all square with them on the previous Sunday, were beaten 2-1 on this occasion, despite a gallant round by Painter, in which the Colwood captain gave his side a two stroke lead by winning the first and fourth holes in birdie figures.

McColl, however, had an off day, and so MacLeod and Roy Chappell with a best ball of 68 gradually assumed control. MacLeod played some fine shots to the green but did not putt so well for his one over par 71, while Chappell was around in 72.

This week the buttons scene changes to Victoria where MacLeod and Chappell will be on their home ground to oppose a new Gorge Vale parnership of Bill Wakeham and John Merriman. John has had many buttons partners since his illustrious combination with Bob Fleming set up all records for this competition. In Bill Wakeham he has one of Canada's most promising youngsters as partner, and the Victoria pair will have their work cut out to win this one.

As Wakeham is currently co-holder of the junior buttons in partnership with Allan MacLeod, there will be no junior game this week. Last week Wakeham and MacLeod beat the Uplands pair, Dick Humphries and John Hadfield, by 3 and 2 although they were two down at the turn. The holders then won the 10th, 11th, 12th, 1st, 3rd and 15th holes to turn the tide, Wakeham's homeward half was 32.

The Victoria club greens staff is busy working on the construction of a new 15th tee which is situated near the boundary of the club's property. The alteration will somewhat reduce the angle of the dog leg, but will make a slightly longer, and perhaps more difficult hole.

Purpose of the change is to make more ground available for car parking.

Jimmy Dalziel and the Rev. Harry Pike held on to those senior buttons Friday when they defeatel George Goodwin and Dr. H. Gill at Gorge Vale. Dalziel and Pike were making a first defence after upsetting the Victoria pair, Graham Chambers and Colin Hart.

A medal competition at Uplands Sunday attracted a large entry, and the winner of the net competition was Bruce Blay. His 88, less a handicap of 19, gave him a three under par total of 67. Second was C. Tryell 79-11—68.

The low gross prize was shared by Joe Briggs and Claud Heggie, each with 76.

The year's trophies and prizes will be presented at a dinner meeting of the Royal Colwood club Wednesday, Dec. 9.

Cambridge Match Coming Up

Big Test for Yank at Oxford

Another in a series on the Old Country sports scene, contributed by former Daily Colonist sports writer Ian Glenday:

By IAN GLENDAY

LONDON — Pete Dawkins, the crew-cut Yank at Oxford, has achieved in less than a dozen rugby matches a goal that is the fierce desire of any rugby-playing student who enters this famous English university. Although the American, a Rhodes Scholar and former all-American at West Point, probably doesn't realize the importance of his selection to the Oxford team that will meet Cambridge Dec. 8, he will soon become aware of the significance of the occasion.

For the university match at Twickenham, the home of English rugby, is much the same as the annual Army-Navy gridiron battle in which Dawkins has played such prominent roles, and is one of the most important sporting events on the calendar. There is the same "big-game" atmosphere, the tremendous rivalry that is so traditional in any major college or university event and the enthusiasm of excited students spurring the teams on from the stands.

In this respect Dawkins should be right at home. But the American may find the occasion a bit overwhelming from a rugby-playing point of view because this match will produce some first-class rugby by experienced international and club players who have acquired a sound knowledge of the game through years of practice and application.

Dawkins, in spite of his meteoric rise to the most coveted of all Oxford rugby honors, is still a novice and many of the critics who argued against his selection expect him to crash mightily in his first major test. This will be a match that will bring out the best in players and there will be no room for mistakes in such basic principles as positioning and tackling.

CONTRIBUTED LITTLE

The broad-shouldered American, who plays on the wing, scored two tries in his first senior match against Blackheath but in two subsequent matches — against Harlequins and Stanley's XV — he contributed little. His ability to carry the ball, his agility and speed, and his brilliant deception have not been questioned but, in spite of the bone-crushing tackles employed in American football, his tackling is suspect.

Dawkins has also shown his unfamiliarity with rugby football at times with his lack of positioning and against Harlequins he received little of the ball.

One feature of Dawkins' play that has captured the fancy of those who watch him is his left-handed, torpedo-like throw-in from line outs. But many observers feel that the American's throws are too hard for his team-mates to handle cleanly and start an attack quickly.

Nino Valdes, the lumbering Cuban heavyweight who has persistently tried but never succeeded in securing a world title fight, has taken London by storm. Valdes, one of the most popular overseas boxers to fight in England, arrived in London for his bout with Brian London, wearing a white linen suit and white shoes (they won't stay that way long) and described the color as a symbol of fear that world champions hold of him.

Then Valdes, who has oddly enough stopped within the distance three leading British heavyweights, got into a slugging brawl with American heavyweight Mike de John, who is fighting on the same card, in what was supposed to be a "friendly" sparring test.

Both boxers became so enthused that a halt had to be called in the proceedings for fear that neither of them would be in any condition to fulfil their Wembley engagements.

Stan Leonard's success in the Canada Cup golf competition was in many ways strangely ignored by the British press, which concentrated its efforts on Peter Thomson and the failures of the British Isles. So it was pleasant to read that the easy-going Leonard had beaten the Aussie in a playoff although the presentation of the story seemed more like Thomson losing than the Canadian winning. At least there were few excuses for the British showings and most reports commended the golfers for puting up a good show.

Canadians Concerned

Few Votes Likely For Games Ban

TORONTO (CP)—The suggestion that the Winter Olympic Games should be abolished would probably not raise a dozen favorable votes in the International Olympic Committee, A. Sidney Dawes, a committee member and former president of the Canadian Olympic Association, said Monday.

Dawes was commenting here on the proposal by Marc Hodler, president of the International Ski Federation, and Otto Mayer, chancellor of the IOC, that the Winter Olympics should be dropped by 1968.

"I can't imagine Mr. Holder being in favor of dropping the games," said Dawes.

If the proposal is raised in the committee, said Dawes, he will not support it and he believes that neither will most of the other members.

Mayer was reported Sunday as saying that the IOC would be delighted if the sports federations suggested abolishing the winter games. He said the games had become too professionalized and could no longer be considered Olympic sports.

SUGGESTIONS 'ABSURD'

In Montreal, Ken Farmer, president of the Canadian Olympic Association, said that as far as Canada is concerned, suggestions of professionalism in skiing are absurd.

"There is no opportunity in Canada for professional skiing except by teachers," he said.

Farmer also said there is no professionalism in figure skating in Canada although "I don't know whether that goes for Europe."

He said instead of abolishing the Winter Olympics, the summer event should be reduced in size to allow expansion of the small winter counterpart. Such indoor sports as boxing, wrestling, basketball and weightlifting could be transferred, he said.

"There are too many sports in the summer and too few in the Winter Olympics."

TWO-WEEKEND SHOOT

Two-weekend trap and rifle shoot will be held Dec. 13 and 20 by the Jordan River Athletic and Community Association at the Jordan River Hall. Meet will begin at 1 p.m. each day.

Suspect Pleads Guilty Hours After Holdup

Justice moved swiftly in Saanich yesterday, when a suspect pleaded guilty to armed robbery less than 12 hours after the offence.

Earl Willard Fletcher, 34, of 620 Huxley, father of five, appeared before Magistrate William Ostler, elected trial by magistrate and pleaded guilty.

He was remanded to next Tuesday for a probation report and sentence.

GUN-POINT

He was charged with holding up Roy Jarvis, 43, 631 Superior, night attendant at De Jong's Service Station, 3393 Douglas, at gun-point and robbing the station of about $45.

Saanich Det.-Sgt. Robin Stewart testified that Fletcher parked his car on Oak Street about 4.15 a.m., then walked through a field to the station at Douglas and Saanich Road. He had a scarf over his face and carried a .303 British rifle.

Opening the door, he pointed the rifle at Jarvis, who was sitting at the desk, and ordered him to take the money from the drawer and put it on top of the desk. Jarvis did so.

ALL THERE IS

"Is that all there is?" the robber asked.

"Yes," said Jarvis.

"Is there any money in the register at the pump?"

"No, not at night," the robber was told.

He then ordered Jarvis to rip the telephone from the wall, and warned him:

"I can shoot 100 yards with this rifle, so don't move!"

WENT INTO DARK

He then went out into the darkness behind the station, back to his car. He drove it, Det.-Sgt. Stewart said, around to Saanich and Falmouth, where he was checked by Saanich constables Richard Avison and Harry Coote, within 20 minutes of the holdup.

Police found the rifle, fully loaded, in the car, and in the man's pockets were the scarf and $45 in bills and change.

Station operator F. H. De Jong told the Colonist yesterday that the robber seemed to know how the station operated.

"He knew, for instance, that at night the cash drawer was removed from the register and kept in the desk drawer."

Tories Thank Pickersgill With 'Nasser Fellowship'

OTTAWA (UPI)—Former Liberal immigration minister J. W. Pickersgill yesterday was awarded the General Nasser travelling fellowship as the citizen of the Atlantic provinces who "contributed the most to the Conservative party without actually becoming a member."

Maritime MP's who made the award during the Conservative party general meeting, explained that every Maritime constituency Pickersgill visited during the last federal election went to Conservative candidates.

B.C.-Wide Nurse Wage Pact Hailed by St. Joseph's Hospital

Victoria nurses at St. Joseph's Hospital will benefit from an experiment in hospital wage settlements on a province-wide basis.

They are among 2,500 nurses in 37 B.C. hospitals to receive a six per cent wage increase spread over a two-year contract granted by the B.C. Hospitals Association. Nurses at Royal Jubilee Hospital are negotiating on their own, and negotiations are expected to begin almost immediately.

"It's the first time that we have ever tried to negotiate on a province-wide basis, and the results are most gratifying," said Dr. E. N. Boettcher of the St. Joseph's staff. "Negotiations were settled by Nov. 30, the earliest it has ever been looked after."

On the present wage scale, the increase means that nurses now being paid a starting wage of $280 a month will get $285 in 1960 and $297 in 1961. A nurse with four years of experience would receive $342 on the 1960 scale and $359 in 1961.

He's a Fan, But Then Again . . .

Paar Invites Exit Of Tuneful Rooney

NEW YORK (UPI) — What does Mickey Rooney really think of Jack Paar?

TV viewers didn't get a chance to find out last night as Rooney was invited by Paar to leave the show.

Before leaving, Rooney had told Paar he was a Paar fan, and he wasn't a Paar fan. The comments came as he leaned on a desk top, on Paar and sang songs.

Asked by Paar if he, Rooney, liked him, Rooney first said, "Jack—first of all, I couldn't figure out why you are so popular till I was here tonight. Then I realized . . ."

At this point the band began to play and Rooney began to sing "Love Is a Simple Thing" as the commercials began. Back again, Rooney was still singing—a different tune this time—and he then told Paar, "Everyone stays up late to hear your show. I'm a fan, too . . . you have a wonderful show."

Drunk? No, 'High Strung'

Leaning a bit closer to Paar, who was leaning away from Rooney, Mickey then went into a narrative about his being a TV fan.

Then, abruptly, Rooney said to Paar, "I'm not a fan. I don't stay up to watch your show. I'm watching Tom Duggan (a Hollywood TV personality)."

Later, Rooney changed his mind again. "I look at the show. I don't enjoy your show," he told Paar. "I don't enjoy it too much except I can't stay away from it."

"You enjoy it tonight?" asked Paar.

"Not necessarily," replied Rooney.

"Would you care to leave?" asked Paar.

Rooney nodded, pulled himself to his full height, shook hands with Paar and exited to his left.

Paar watched him go while the audience applauded and said, "It's a shame, he was a great talent."

Later, when asked by a man in the audience if Rooney was "really drunk," Paar said, "I don't think so. Just high strung." He added, "But I wouldn't light a match in here for weeks."

Paar explained that because of what had happened, his show was 15-minutes short. He filled in with audience interviews and music.

Scots Cattle Roam on Fulford 'Moors'

FULFORD HARBOR — The fields about Fulford are looking more and more like the moors of Scotland lately, with the importation of an experimental herd of Highland cattle.

Bob Akerman, a well-known sheep farmer in the district, had the shaggy cattle sent over from the Fraser Valley. The herd numbers eight head at present.

The catle are quite stocky—some have the traditional long, wide-spread horns—brown hide and weight about 1,000 lbs., as far as Mr. Akerman can judge.

They are at present on his farm in Burgoyne Valley and they keep in the bushes at the back, as much as they can.

They seem to prefer the bush to the open fields and refuse the shelter of the barns.

Mr. Akerman is enthusiastic about his new venture, as is his five-year-old son Paddy, the cowboy of the family.

NATO Is Disintegrating U.K. Columnist Contends

LONDON (CP) — Is NATO disintegrating?

The question is posed by columnist Paul Johnson. Writing in The Evening Standard, he says that not only has NATO failed to reach its "absolute minimum" in militay targets, but the real possibility exists that existing forces will be further "eroded" in the near future.

With NATO's December meeting two weeks away, Johnson lists some of the weaknesses.

JUST EUPHEMISM

Compared with NATO'S original aim of up to 90 divisions, there now are about 16 styled as ready for combat—ready is a euphemism because few of the German troops are fully trained and British forces are below strength.

President de Gaulle of France is likely to resort to further "blackmail" unless he has a bigger say in NATO.

Western Germany's claims will be on a more insistent note in the 1960s as its military contributions increases.

Finally, says Johnson, there is a growing feeling in NATO against relying on nucuear deterents.

Johnson is a former Paris correspondent for The New Statesman and also contributes to French publications.

43 Teachers Quit From December 31

ELLIOT LAKE, Ont. (CP) — School board chairman R. C. Hart said yesterday he hopes the 43 public school teachers who have resigned effectice Dec. 31, will change their minds.

The resignations left only 15 teachers and one principal on staff here. This Northern Ontario uranium centre of 22,000 is faced with "an impossible" situation, Mr. Hart said.

The letters of resignation have not been accepted by the board. It is believed they were the result of a salary dispute although the board said it does not know why the teachers resigned.

In Danger, Says Sauve

Confederation Life at Stake

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Paul Sauve said yesterday the life of Confederation will be at stake when the time comes to consider renewal of federal-provincial tax agreements expiring in 1962.

Addressing a delegation from the Quebec division of the Canadian Manufacturers Association, Premier Sauve said if it is not understood that a matter of life or death is involved in renewal of the agree-then "I do not see how Confederation will be able to continue to function."

In a brief presented to the premier and his cabinet, the CMA had urged that municipalities be given financial help out of the consolidated revenues of the province.

Mr. Sauve said that this year the provincial government will give municipalities and school commissions $335,000, approximately 65 per cent of its revenues.

"We are going to the extreme limit of what we can do under present circumstances," he said. "It is absolutely necessary that by 1962 there be a better division of taxes. From now until then it will be necessary to establish an atmosphere conducive to fruitful negotiations with the federal government."

Grass Roots Theme Sweeps Tory Rally

OTTAWA (CP)—The Progressive Conservative party looked to its grass roots Tuesday amid warnings against complacency over the next election.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker, in a pep talk to the general meeting of the party's national association, said the Conservatives "do not intend to lose touch with the grass roots of this country, so long as I remain leader."

A few hours earlier, national director Allister Grosart called for efforts to win more than the record 208 Commons seats, of a total 265, that the Conservatives won last year.

"I am not willing to admit we can't do better the next time," Mr. Grosart said.

Speech-making predominated as the two-day meeting, attended by some 1,300 delegates and members, got under way slowly. The pace will pick up today with debate on resolutions and election of association officers.

Mr. Diefenbaker said Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson had explained the Liberal government's election defeat in 1957 by saying the Liberal "brass" lost touch with "the grass." J. W. Pickersgill, former Liberal immigration minister, had said the Liberals ran out of ideas.

"This meeting shows we don't intend to allow ourselves to fall into either of those mistakes," the prime minister said.

UN Tie Ends Seesaw

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—The 82-member United Nations General Assembly wrestled itself to a standstill again Tuesday on the question of electing a new member to the Security Council.

The seesaw contest between Turkey and Communist Poland for a seat on the 11-member council ended in deadlock, and assembly President Victor A. Belaunde of Peru postponed the issue until "a forthcoming meeting."

Six secret ballots were held Tuesday—making a total of 49 since the first vote Oct. 12—with Turkey and Poland running practically neck-on-neck.

According to UN procedure, some ballots were "restricted" to Poland and Turkey while on others the various UN members could vote for whom they pleased. But that made no difference. On one unrestricted ballot, the two countries tied 41 to 41.

On the final vote of the day Turkey had a 42-to-39 edge, far short of the two-thirds majority required for election to the seat that will be left vacant by Japan at the end of this year.

'Brass' Won't Lose Touch With 'Grass'

OTTAWA (UPI) — Prime Minister John Diefenbaker vowed yesterday that the Conservative "brass" will never lose touch with the party "grass."

He told some 1,600 degelates at the opening session of a two-day National Conservative Association meeting that the party must be able to go to the people at the next general election with a record of "promises made, promises kept."

Gun-Firer Jail-Bound

NORTH VANCOUVER (CP) — A 20-year-old youth was sentenced to six months in jail Tuesday despite his plea that his teen-aged wife is pregnant.

Elmer Klemola pleaded guilty to causing a disturbance by firing six .22 and .30-30-calibre bullets into a basement suite after he and his wife were at a party.

Public Works Committee Told

Fluoridation Good—Expert

City engineer James C. Garnett reported to public works committee yesterday that there is "abundant authoritative evidence as to the benefit, harmlessness and practicability of closely controlled fluoridation."

However, he said, "only a plebiscite can determine the public view as to the desirability of such a service, assuming a probably average cost of $1 per service per annum."

Mr. Garnett submitted the report at the committee's request.

On engineering aspects, he said that there could be "no question as to the practicability of controlled fluoridation within the prescribed limits," and that the possibility of corrosive effects on the water system "is, in my opinion, sufficiently small as to be negligible."

"I can find no adverse reference to corrosion from fluoridation in any of the appropriate technical files," he said, "a most unlikely situation (if the problem existed) with more than 1,600 systems using fluoridation."

The questions of cost and desirability of using the public water system for dental health purposes, he suggested, should be matters for plebiscite, "the one because there is a body of opinion based on religious or similar grounds that must be respected and the other because no matter how beneficial a service is likely to be, the purchaser should have the right to say whether he thinks the price to be paid is excessive in comparison with its worth."

All-Day Parking Tougher

All-day parking on the streets near the legislative buildings, already prohibited, is going to be made more difficult.

Because of continued complaints from residents and also to encourage establishment of parking lots, city council public works committee yesterday recommended that the two-hour limit south and west of the buildings, now effective from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., be made effective from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.

For Composer

Symphony Accepts $1,000

Victoria Symphony Society last night accepted a $1,000 Canada Council grant to commission a composer to write a special piece of music for the Victoria Symphony Society.

Symphony society president Jack Barraclough said that details still have to be worked out, but he welcomed applications from composers throughout British Columbia and hoped some would apply on Vancouver Island.

Biological Warfare Menaces World

Arms No Protection Now Chisholm Warns Farm Rally

DR. BROCK CHISHOLM

Must Change Our Way Of Thinking

The people of the world must change their way of thinking or face racial suicide, Dr. Brock Chisholm said last night.

Speaking to the 26th annual B.C. Federation of Agriculture convention at the Empress Hotel, the former director of the World Health Organization reached this conclusion after discussing chemical and biological warfare, and the world's food and population problems.

ONLY ALTERNATIVE

Only alternative, he told the gathering, is the formation of some sort of world federation with a world police force.

"Any small country with one biochemist and a handful of technicians could render the United States totally incapable of war for one year," Dr. Chisholm said. "And they could do it in one night.

"We have not been told much about security in recent years," he told the gathering. "Some things have been kept under cover, including the fact of chemical and biological warfare. Hundreds of the world's best biologists have been working in this field for 20 years. What they have produced no one knows.

FACT REMAINS

"But the fact remains that the government can no longer protect the people with armament. If, with weapons now available, any country can conduct biological or chemical warfare without us knowing who started it or is doing it, then it is time we changed our thinking."

"For the first time in history we must recognize that we cannot survive at the cost of other groups. We must survive as a human race or not at all. Warfare and racial suicide have become synonymous terms."

CHANGING IDEAS

In connection with this completely changing idea of warfare, Dr. Chisholm switched to the problem of food distribution on a world basis. For, he said "the time has gone when millions in other countries will sit back and die peacefully of starvation."

"People in southern Asia have seen pictures of food being destroyed in North America while they are starving. They look toward North America and see mountains of food. Then . . . they may think of moving in and taking the land as our ancestors took it for us.

NOT BE SATISFIED

"They will not be satisfied with making arrangements so that 50 years from now the children in their country won't starve," he added. "The initiative to plan a solution to the problem must be taken now by the healthy, well-fed people of the world."

Speaking in connection with the food problem, Dr. Chisholm said earlier in an interview that a plan to store surplus food in Antarctic ice for future use was feasible but wouldn't solve the world's food problem.

Tax-Free Improvements

It's Up to Smith —In the House

Mayoralty candidate J. Donald Smith was named last night as the man most likely to fulfill his own recommendation that home improvements should be tax-free for seven years—but not as the mayor.

Speaking at an Oaklands district civic election meeting addressed by Mayor Scurrah, council candidate Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow read from a letter by Victoria assessor A. G. Joyce which stated that the proposal put forward by Mr. Smith, a Social Credit MLA, could only come about as an amendment to the Municipal Act.

The letter stated that council had no authority to waive assessments of any kind.

RIGHT PLACE

"Mr. Smith is certainly in the right place in the legislature to do it," Ald. Edgelow stated.

Mayor Scurrah showed a rare turn of impatience with hecklers towards the end of the meeting when, as one man stamped out saying he was going to count the parking places which already exist on the site of the city's proposed downtown parking building, he said "that is another example of the exaggeration and half truths of this campaign."

FIGHT BID

Addressing a crowd of 70 persons, the mayor said he will fight any effort by Vancouver to win dockyard work away from Victoria.

"They're not going to get any of it if I have anything to do with it," he said.

Other candidates who addressed the meeting were Ald. D. J. Proudfoot, Ald. Lily Wilson, Ald. Millard Mooney.

At Least $20,000 For Kiwanis Villa

All the money isn't counted yet, but the Kiwanis Club is assured of at least $20,000 for its Kiwanis Villa building fund.

Final total collected in last night's annual Porchlight Campaign won't be available until later today, when all collections have been counted.

"Our canvassers were well received," a Kiwanis official said late last night, "which would indicate the public is sympathetic to the problem of housing for senior citizens."

Kiwanis Villa, to be built at a cost of $500,000, will contain 38 cottages for senior housing.

20 Years

Arena Debt Paid Off By Nanaimo

NANAIMO—The last payment on Nanaimo's 20-year-old civic arena will be made this month.

The city borrowed $60,000 in 1939 in order to complete the arena project as an aid to unemployment.

At that time, the city was still getting over the effects of the depression and employment was scarce.

The federal and provincial governments granted $20,000 towards labor costs, and the Gyro Club provided $10,000.

This left the city with $60,000 to find. A bylaw was passed, and since that time just over $4,000 has been paid annually to meet the over-all $90,000 cost of the arena.

The last $4,000 payment will be made Dec. 15 to retire the debt.

Colquitz Group Elects Salmon

Edward Salmon was re-elected president of the Colquitz branch of the B.C. Government Employees Association at the association's recent annual meeting.

Other members of the executive are Horace Goad, vice-president; R. B. Hilton, secretary; W. R. Livesey, treasurer; Harold Charlewood and Reginald Arnott, executive members.

Retarded Children Hosts

Cake Enjoyed, Work Admired

There were looks of pride and pleasure in young eyes at the school for retarded children on Joan Crescent yesterday.

And with good reason; scores of guests who attended the Victoria Retarded Children's Association open house at the school ate with obvious enjoyment the cake and sandwiches prepared by older girls of the school, and admired displays of work set up by older boys.

The visitors, including council and school board members and social workers as guests of honor, saw not only the classroom work of the 25 pupils at the school but the clubroom which is being set up for the older children, to be used as a recreation centre at least one evening a week beginning in the spring.

The open house was held in connection with the province-wide drive for funds for extension of work with the retarded, especially of pre-school and post-school age: research, kindergarten facilities, vocational training, and sheltered workshops.

Target of the campaign in Greater Victoria, under chairmanship of Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow, is $30,000.

The school is operated with the assistance of grants from the department of education for pupils of normal school age. Hope of the association, officers said yesterday, is that school boards will take over operation of schools for retarded children of normal school age next fall, so that the association's full energies can be devoted to establishing the much-needed pre-school and post-school services.

Forged Cheques Returned To City Business Firms

Two city business firms yesterday reported receiving forged cheques drawn on the Hastings and Granville branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce in Vancouver.

Two cheques marked "forgery" were returned to Hirst & Flintoff, 1006 Broad Street. They were each made out in the amount of $10.15 and in each case, $3 worth of merchandise and $7.15 cash was obtained.

One cheque marked "forgery" was returned to the Catherine Wilson Corset Shop Ltd., 618 Fort. It was for $5.15 worth of merchandise.

It was reported that all three cheques, signed by P. G. Williams, were passed by a woman.

Complainants were advised to see the city prosecutor.

Recorded Music Program Slated

A program of recorded music will be presented Thursday at 7.30 p.m. in Victoria Public Library music room.

Works to be heard include Mendelssohn's Overture to a "Midsummer Night's Dream," Beethoven's "Symphony No. 1" Tchaikowsky's "Violin Concerto."

Trenches Won't Trip Shoppers

Christmas-shopping traffic soon will flow unimpeded by trenches in downtown Victoria streets.

The B.C. Electric underground wiring program will be suspended from late this week until early in January to avoid creating Christmas shopping inconvenience, the company has announced.

Program from January to April calls for completion of all downtown trenching and ductwork in the 30-block area where overhead power lines will be eliminated when the new underground lines are installed.

Good Pals Despite Size

$500,000 City Hall Job 'No Use'

Bringing city hall up to safety standards required by city bylaws would so reduce space that an extension would have to be built, and total cost would be at least $500,000, city engineer James Garnett said yesterday.

But he suggested that this alternative should be considered when a special committee looks into the need and cost of a new city hall.

He made the suggestion while public works committee was debating the advisability of going ahead with a $3,850 interior painting program which, in the end, it recommended.

If rehabilitating the present building would cost $500,000, Ald. Hugh Ramsay said, "then it's no use putting it in here; it might as well be put into a new city hall."

Have to Interfere Too Much

Firms Doing Their Best Smoke Committee Says

Victoria's new smoke abatement advisory committee visited four mills yesterday and came away satisfied they were doing all they could to cut down smoke and cinders.

"I feel you would have to interfere with industry unduly to do anything more about it at the present time," said D. M. Malcolm, committee member who was spokesman for residents who petitioned last summer for stricter enforcement of the city smoke bylaw.

He and Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow, city council public works chairman, concurred in the opinion that the mills were doing their utmost to reduce smoke and cinders.

"One hope," said Ald. Edgelow, "is that as time progresses, they are finding more and more by-products, and getting less and less waste to burn."

He said B.C. Forest Products was investigating a bark press which might reduce the moisture in bark and result in better combustion.

Highway Killing Down

Highway slaughter on B.C. highways was on the downward trend in November, thanks to more careful Vancouver and Victoria drivers, but only 30 highway deaths this month would create a new yearly record for B.C.

Last year 34 people were killed on B.C. highways in December.

As of Nov. 30, the highway fatality total for 1959 stood at 287, up 39 from last year's total of 248.

But, in November, only 25 people were killed in road accidents compared with 30 in November, 1958. In Vancouver there was only one highway fatality in November this year, compared with 6 in November, 1958, and in Greater Victoria there was only one highway fatality last month (at Colwood) compared with three in November last year.

All time fatality record was set in 1956 when 316 were killed.

Last night as Safe Driving Week (Dec. 1 to 7) started motor vehicles branch superintendent George Lindsay cautioned citizens to show good sense in driving and walking, since "obeying the rules of courteous conduct will enable everyone to enjoy the entire holiday month."

Bamberton Park Deed Presentation Monday

The British Columbia recreation department will receive the deed to Bamberton Park at a ceremony Monday at 2 p.m. in the office of Recreation Minister Earle Westwood.

B. F. Cox, vice-president and general manager of B.C. Cement Company which is giving the 68.21 acres to the province, will present the deed to Mr. Westwood.

Parks branch workers are now building a 50-unit campsite and picnic site at the Bamberton property, just off Malahat Drive. Popular Sandy Beach will be included in the park and ample changehouse facilities are being provided.

Ex-Builder Seeks Office in Saanich

A former construction man now working for the Veteran's Land Act will run for the position of school trustee in Saanich school district 63 in the forthcoming civic elections.

Fred Berg, 4576 Wilkinson Road, announced his decision yesterday after he was nominated by G. L. Chatterton and A. B. Williams. The two main points on his platform will be closer supervision of new construction in school board projects, and sound investigation into all future school sites.

Employed as regional construction supervisor of VLA for the Vancouver Island area for the past three years, Mr. Berg previously held a similar position in the Interior. He is also a former physical education instructor.

Three Stores Entered On Oak Bay Avenue

Oak Bay police are investigating a series of break-ins discovered yesterday morning in the 2100 and 2200 blocks of Oak Bay Avenue. Three break-ins were reported and it is believed several other attempts were made in nearby shops.

A rear door had been forced at the Golden Galleon Cafe, 2239 Oak Bay, and $25 was missing from a cash register. Nothing else was disturbed there, police said.

Four or five women's sweaters, valued at $4 or $5 each, and $10 in nickels and dimes was taken from a dress shop at 2259 Oak Bay.

Two transistor radios, valued at $79.95 and $39.95, were taken from the R. Huntley Radiolounge, 2180 Oak Bay.

Crash Victim's Chin Cut

Patricia Tyrrell, 3981 Wilkinson Road, driver, was treated at St. Joseph's Hospital yesterday for a deep cut on the chin received in a three-car crash at Douglas and Frances Avenue.

Police said her car struck the rear of a car driven by John D. McKinnell, 2770 Murray Drive, which was stopped in the lane of traffic. His car was knocked into the rear of a car driven by Grant R. Watkins, 1335 Sussex, which was also stopped for traffic.

Rush-hour traffic at 5 p.m. held up by the accident was backed up as far south as the Douglas Street roundabout.

Tips for Parents

Sally Learns Consequences

By EDITH HENRY
Parent Education Associates

Every act has a consequence. If we conduct ourselves in one way, and as a consequence have a feeling of satisfaction, or pleasure, or delight, we are inclined to repeat that behaviour.

If we act in another way, and the consequence is disturbing, we try to avoid that particular path the next time.

Thus we learn.

TEA PARTY

Little Sally, aged 3, had an early lesson in "consequences" one day when she went to visit her grandmother.

The two of them had settled down comfortably to a tea party. There were sandwiches and little cakes, and Sally poured tea. She was even allowed to use Granny's small silver teapot.

The tea party had just begun when Granny was called to the telephone. When she came back the sandwiches were gone, but in front of Sally lay a helter-skelter pile of crusts!

What should Granny do? "When in doubt, do nothing" flashed through her mind first. Then came Sally's request.

"May I have some cake, Granny?"

Now every little girl and every little boy will come to the time when crusts are taboo. But the sooner this phase is dealt with the better.

Crusts may not actually result in curly hair, but they are good for young teeth. The crispy browned edges have digestive value. And, people eat their crusts. The sooner Sally learns to be like "people" the happier she will be.

So this dialogue followed:

Granny, cheerfully: "You may have all the cake you like when you finish your crusts."

DIDN'T LIKE

Sally, decidedly: "But I don't want to eat the crusts."

Granny, agreeably: "Very well, you don't have to eat them."

Sally, hopefully: "May I have my cake, then?"

Granny, still cheerfully: "Yes, as soon as you eat your crusts."

It took a few minutes for the consequence of to eat, or of not to eat, to reach Sally's mind. When it did she wasted no time. The helter-skelter pile was simply stuffed into her small mouth by the fistful!

Granny let the extra lesson of polite eating go. Crusts or cakes? Sally had learned by consequences.

Civilian Chief Leaves Navy

Robert Roberts, civilian assistant chief of staff at HMC Dockyard, goes on retirement leave Monday after 35 years as an administrative officer with Pacific Command.

Born in Scotland, he came to this country following army service in the First World War. He signed on with the department of national defence at HMCS Naden in 1924.

Fish Cookery

Chowder Recipe May Spark Fight

The Department of Fisheries have come up with a most interesting all Canadian Fish cook book. It contains just about every recipe for fish from the Pacific to the Atlantic.

And most important it gives many useful tips how to buy, how much to buy per person, how to store and how to prepare for cooking.

HOW TO FILET

Illustrated directions on how to filet, how to skin a filet and how to bone a fish make the operations look quite simple.

Shell fish has a section of its own and there is just about everything that can be done with a fish except eat it.

FRUIT SAUCE

There are both basic and fancy recipes and a lot of new ideas of combining fish with other foods. For instance halibut steaks with apricot sauce and halibut Hawaiian style using pineapple rings.

Sauces stretch from plain through nut and olive, orange and butter, barbecue, lemon and ginger snap.

Sour cream clam pie, shrimp curry, scallop, casserole, crab and potato chip casserole, New England boiled dinner with salt cod, and oyster beignets could make a change in the menu.

MILK OR TOMATOES?

The book may spark a national issue over clam chowder similar to that in the United States. Maritime Clam chowder calls for clams, salt pork, onion, rich milk, salt, pepper and parsley while the West Coast version has tomatoes, bay leaf and thyme.

If you are interested in the fishery department's efforts to promote the consumption of fish you can obtain the book by writing to the Queen's Printer, Ottawa, and enclose $1.

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann: My 16-year-old daughter is absolutely wild, crazy, insane over Pat Boone. She has every record he's ever made. His pictures are all over her wall. When he's on TV she swoons and moans until the rest of the family would like to bat her over the head to bring her to her senses.

Nora would rather stay at home and listen to Pat Boone's records than go out with a fellow she knows. What can I do about this silly kid? It's beginning to worry me. — NAUSEATED.

Dear Nauseated: She'll get over this as she did the chicken pox and measles. In the meantime, a few words of logic may make a dent.

Granted Pat Boone is an attractive and clean-cut young man. He can even sing a little. But teen-agers who flip completely over jukebox idols waste time and energy which could be better spent.

It's O.K. to make occasional flights into fantasy but people who allow themselves to become swallowed by dreams wind up having trouble fitting into the world of reality.

Friend Hides Painting

Dear Ann: This friend (I'll call her Mrs. Smythe) showed some of her paintings to a group of close friends. A certain woman went into ecstasy over one of the paintings. My friend had the painting framed at a cost of $16, and presented it to her on her birthday.

Several weeks later Mrs. Smythe went to a tea in this woman's home and was shocked to find the painting stuck in a hallway, behind a large rubber plant. A person would have to search in order to find it.

Should she ask for the painting back now that she is sure it means nothing to these people?—T.Y.

Dear T.Y.: The gift was presented in good faith with no strings attached. She had better forget it.

Had Right to Resent It

Dear Ann Landers: My daughter is 21. She was home for the weekend and had to leave on a 7.30 plane to return to college.

Her boy friend brought her home at 1.30 and they woke me up and asked if it would be OK for him to stay and drive her to the airport at 6.30 a.m. I told them it would not be respectable for them to sit up all night alone and that I had no intention of sitting up with them.

We got into a fuss and my daughter told her boy friend to leave and wait in the car. She said she'd be out at 5 a.m. and they would go to an all-night restaurant for breakfast on the way to the airport.

In my opinion, any way you look at it, she was asking for permission to let the young man stay all night and I would not agree to it. Now she is mad at me. Your opinion, please.—I.A.Q.

Dear I.A.Q.: When a daughter, 21, awakens her mother and asks for permission to let her boy friend visit and then drive her to the airport, it's a pretty safe bet the gal can be trusted. If she were on the "wild" side, there are other places she could have gone besides home.

Your refusal was a vote of no-confidence and she had a right to resent it. These were special circumstances and merited special consideration.

Next time, however, it would be better if he brought her home at 10 p.m. and came to get her at 5 a.m.

What's Cooking!

Spoon Golden Gravy Over Chicken, Rice

By LOUISE MOORE

Nothing brings back nostalgic memories like the fragrant aroma of chicken bubbling in the pot that greets us as we return from church at midday of a Sunday. We like it best the way mother used to make it — with the tender chicken parts on a huge platter, surrounded by fluffy mounds of rice and spooned golden gravy over top.

When mother's kitchen garden flourished, little nosegays of parsley were sure to adorn the offering as well as baby carrots freshly pulled and new asparagus, a freshly baked fresh fruit pie—not one but two or three usually stood on the pantry shelf waiting to be cut into wedges and given a coating of sugar before serving.

SUNDAY CHICKEN DINNER

One fowl (4½-5 lbs), 2 tblsp. butter, 2 tblsp. flour, 1½ cups chicken broth, ½ cup rich milk, 1 or 2 egg yolks, ¼ tsp. paprika, ¼ tsp. white pepper, salt to taste, 1 tsp. lemon juice, 1 cup raw rice.

Put fowl in large heavy pot. Add a slice or two of onion, a handful celery leaves and a dozen pepper-corns. Cover with boiling water, cover and simmer gently until chicken is tender. Time will depend on age of bird, but allow about 30 minutes to the pound. When almost done, add 1 tsp. salt. Remove from broth and cut the chicken into pieces for serving. If you wish it to look especially attractive, use only the white meat of the chicken.

Skim broth of much of the fat.

Make sauce by melting butter, stir in the flour and, when smooth and bubbly, slowly add the chicken broth and the cream. Stir and cook over low heat until smooth and thickened. Add seasoning and, just before removing from fire, stir a little of the mixture into the egg yolk or yolks and then stir it into the rest of sauce. Add the lemon juice. Keep hot over boiling water. Arrange chicken pieces, which should be warm as possible, on hot platter, surround with the rice which has been cooked until tender and flaky in boiling salted water and drained. Pour the hot sauce over the chicken, garnish the rice with chopped parsley and serve at once.

Note: Use any left-over stock for a bowl of rich chicken soup. Left-over rice may be added to the soup, too.

Instead of rice, make dumplings with biscuit mix, using enough liquid so that the dough will drop from tip of spoon on to the chicken pieces in the pot. Cover pot tightly and boil — simmer about 12-15 minutes. (Don't peek while the dumplings are cooking!)

No Fairy Tale

Test to Prove Happy Marriage

By DOROTHY ROE

NEW YORK (AP)—"... And so the brave prince slew the dragon, rescued the beautiful princess, carried her away to his castle and they were married and lived happily ever after . . ."

Young people have been reading too many fairy tales, says David Mace, founder of Marriage Counselling Services in Britain, now a visiting professor of family study at the University of Pennsylvania. The concentration of movies, television and current romantic fiction is that the altar is the goal of every girl and boy, and is the gateway to lifelong bliss.

SEVEN QUESTIONS

Often the honeymoon is over when Mary first sees John touseled, unshaven and grouchy, before his first cup of coffee in the morning. Or when John sees Mary at bedtime with greasy cream on her face and her hair up in curlers.

Life isn't a fairy story, points out the professor. And two young people starting out to make a new life together represent only the raw materials out of which a happy marriage can be achieved.

If you can answer yes to the following questions, says the professor, you can consider yourself happily married:

1. Are you good companions?
2. Do you settle your arguments by mutual adjustment?
3. Would you choose each other again?
4. Do you approve of marriage generally as a satisfactory way of life?
5. Do you consider your marriage happier than most?
6. Are you willing to give and take?

Do you think of yourselves as "we" instead of "you" and "I?"

If you can pass this test, says Dr. Mace, you really do have a pretty good chance of living happily ever after.

Mrs. V. H. Maxwell who has worked for the local office for five years, states the "rush" is really on, and that customers appreciate the ready-made-up envelopes.

Big Missiles

Russia In Lead

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Defence Secretary Neil H. McElroy conceded Tuesday that Russia may have superior numbers of intercontinental missiles in the early 1960s. He said he has ordered preparations for an American airborne bomber alert to make up for the "gap."

Asked if a "missile gap" is a foregone conclusion, the secretary said "I don't say there will be. But there can be."

"If Russia builds what it could and we build what we intend, they will have more missile capability for the period of 1961, 1962 and maybe 1963 than we will have," McElroy said.

Birth Control Advice Given Those Who Ask

NEW YORK (UPI)—Protestant medical missionaries around the world are fighting the "population explosion" by giving birth control aid to those who seek it, church leaders said yesterday.

Most of the advice and other aid now being given to hard-pressed families in underdeveloped countries is provided on an informal person-to-person basis by individual doctors and nurses, Protestant organizations reported.

But except for Japan and India, whose governments are trying to control their populations, there are no established programs and funds for the work that is being done are inadequate, church leaders said.

Protestant churchmen were asked about their activity in the field of family planning overseas in the wake of the controversy over whether government foreign aid funds should be used to disseminate birth control information.

The Rt. Rev. James A. Pike, Protestant Episcopal bishop of California, raised the issue by asking Sen. John F. Kennedy, a Roman Catholic, if he would sanction the use of U.S. funds for such a purpose.

Kennedy replied that he would not. Some other possible presidential candidates, including Republican Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York and Democrat Adlai E. Steveson, said they would approve the dissemination of birth control information overseas if such help were requested.

Various Protestant organizations have been quietly going about the business of promoting family planning for many years. Even before World War II, medical missionaries in China gave couples advice on how to limit the size of their families.

Dr. Fred G. Scovel, secretary of the Christian medical council of the National Council of Churches and a medical missionary for 30 years, said that wherever Protestant doctors and nurses are at work in the foreign field, their help in family planning is requested.

Alberta Plans Riding Revision

EDMONTON (CP)—A general redistribution of Alberta legislature seats between now and the next provincial election was indicated Tuesday.

Social Credit MLSs attending the annual fall caucus discussed the formation of a redistribution committee to be set up during the 1960 house session.

At present there are 65 seats in the provincial house. The committee will look at constituency boundaries and populations, and decide whether total house membership should be raised or lowered.

The next Alberta election is expected to be held in 1963.

Started Fever, Says Nikita

Denunciation of Stalinism Sparked Hungary Revolt

VIENNA (UPI)—Nikita S. Khrushchev said yesterday his own abrupt denunciation of Stalinism in February, 1956, caused an upheaval in world Communism and touched off the Hungarian freedom rebellion.

In an address before the Hungarian Socialist Workers (Communist) party congress in Budapest, the Soviet premier said the "fever" generated by his attack on Stalin combined with "mistakes" by the old Stalinist regime to give the revolution its spark. He made it clear this never would happen again under the new Hungarian government which received his blessing.

Ranging over world affairs, the Soviet leader also:

Repeated his call for a summit conference "the earlier the better."

Warned that Russia was "invincible" with stockpiles of nuclear rockets, but was ready to "destroy" them in a disarmament pact.

Again demanded Allied withdrawal from West Berlin and renewed his threat to sign a unilateral peace treaty with East Germany.

Accused West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of "interference" in Berlin.

Warned the West not to expect basic Soviet changes because "we shall never forego our ideological principles."

Khrushchev stressed Soviet support for the puppet Hungarian regime of Janos Kadar established by Soviet steel in November, 1956, which is reported still executing freedom fighters of the abortive revolt three years ago.

The Soviet leader blamed "to a considerable extent" the misrule of the Stalinist Hungarian regime of Matyas Rakosi which fell just before the revolt started on Oct. 23, 1956. Rakosi, disgraced, last was reported living in Outer Mongolia.

But Khrushchev said he himself opened the pandora's box of troubles for Communism with his address to the 20th Soviet Party Congress in February that year denouncing the Stalinist "cult of personality" and reviling Stalin as a master butcher.

Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort
Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain And Itching As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain and itching. Thousands have been relieved with this inexpensive substance right in the privacy of their own home without any discomfort or inconvenience.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was promptly relieved. And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of even 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) — the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H—ointment, with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

Several fund-raising events are planned in conjunction with the drive. Victoria Gun Club will hold its annual turkey shoot at the club's Albert Head grounds Dec. 19 and 20, and the fund toy auction is set for Maynard & Sons Dec. 19.

Victoria Chapter 25, Women of the Moose, and the Loyal Order of Moose Lodge No. 1390 will hold a bingo game Dec. 7 at Moose Hall, 512-514 Fort Street, with proceeds going to the fund. Victoria Optimist Club will make its doation at its bingo game tomorrow night at Central Junior High School.

In addition, F. W. Lockett of Cook Street Fish & Chips Shop, 250 Cook, is again raffling off a huge Christmas stocking, and at the same time taking donations for the Colonist 500 Fund.

The $2,000 already taken in means that each of the 500 families selected by welfare agencies will receive at least $4, but there is still a long way to go.

Donations, deductible for income tax purposes, may be sent to "The Daily Colonist 500 Fund, 2631 Douglas Street." They can be left at that office or at the downtown office, 1215 Broad Street. Latest donations:

175 Feet Down in Icy Depths

Ten Victoria Divers Set World's Record

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Daring Feat May Alter RCN Policy

By TERRY HAMMOND

A group of 10 Royal Canadian Navy divers returned to their Victoria homes yesterday after a world-record mass dive 175 feet down in sub-freezing Alaskan waters.

The divers, ranging in rank from lieutenant-commander to able seaman, achieved a world record for naval personnel wearing self-contained "wet suit" equipment.

EXTREME COLD

Purpose of the record dive was to prove the practicability of wet suits at extreme depths and in extreme cold.

Temperature of the water off towering Taku Glacier where the dive took place was 30 degrees, two degrees colder than the temperature at which fresh water freezes and just half a degree above the lowest recorded temperature of ocean water.

Only two other divers in the world are known to have achieved a similar mark.

BERING SEA

They are two San Diego civilian scientists who recorded a depth of 180 feet in wet suits in the Bering Sea.

The feat of the Victoria contingent of divers may result in a major policy change on Royal Canadian Navy approved diving equipment.

ONE OF FIRST

In command of the diving operation, and one of the first pair of divers to set foot on the muddy bottom near the foot of the glacier more than 800 miles northwest of Victoria, was Lt.-Cmdr. Benjamin Ackerman, 3363 Glasgow, commander of the RCN's operational clearance diving unit Number 2, attached to HMCS Naden.

For him, as well as the other divers, the technical accomplishment was a major one.

He and his men have long advocated acceptance of the wet suit diving technique as standard naval diving procedure.

Below Ocean

'Just Like Wintry Day'

"It was no worse than stepping outside on a cold, wintry day."

That was the way AB Albert Lodge, 21, youngest member of the Royal Canadian Navy's record-setting, 10-man diving team, described the way it feels to be 175 feet below the ocean in water two degrees below freezing and wearing a "wet suit."

"I wasn't really worried—the only thing that was on my mind was the cold.

"We'd tested the suits in a pressure chamber and we had noticed that it shrank to at least half its thickness under the pressure of a 175-foot dive.

"I wasn't really cold down there, and on the way up, as the pressure got less and the suit got thicker again I felt quite warm."

The men of the team got an average of 14 cents a minute during the duration of the dive—a total of about $4 per man (risk pay).

But that wasn't a factor to LS Fred Olkovick, 29.

"I'd even do it for nothing," he said.

"I guess I just love diving.

"Before I went down I sort of wondered, but after I came up I was really thrilled."

PO George Ackerman, a navy diver for more than 12 years, said he was "just a bit cold" on the bottom, but said he would have been warmer if he had had a task to perform.

LS Robert Larsen, a former Toronto resident now living with his wife and small child at 9806 Fifth Street, said he was "sort of dubious" before the dive.

"But I'd do it again any time, I didn't even feel the cold.

Record Dive No Challenge

Civilian "skindivers" should not accept the record dive by 10 Victoria-based RCN divers as a "challenge to try to do better," the commander of the contingent warned yesterday.

Lt.-Cmdr. Benjamin Ackerman, one of the 10 who made the dive to 175 feet in 30-degree Alaskan waters, said "our dive was a stunt, but it was a stunt with a purpose.

"It was designed as a test of divers and diving equipment.

"It was carefully controlled, well equipped and involved only highly experienced divers," he added.

"We had extensive naval resources at our command, we had diving tenders down at the decompression level in case anybody ran into trouble and we had spare equipment, including lungs and tanks, tethered to the descent line in case we needed it."

He said few amateur divers have as many diving hours as the least experienced members of the team, and fewer have the equipment resources to call upon.

Labor Minister Wicks has been ordered to bed for a week by his doctor. Mrs. Wicks said Tuesday her husband caught a cold last week that developed into flu.

Electrolysis Sinks Boat At Wharf

TOFINO — The 40-foot department of fisheries patrol launch, Atolla, moored at the fishermen's float, sank Monday night when part of the steel plating was decomposed by a chemical reaction.

Electrolysis — chemical decomposition by electrical action — was yesterday blamed for the hole which caused the boat to settle to the bottom.

Neither Captain Harold Arnet or fisheries officer Gordon Barrie were aboard overnight but considerable water damage was done to the interior of the boat and the equipment it contained.

The Atolla was lifted at low tide and is being serviced at the Tofino marine works.

Yankee Gangsters In Control?

VANCOUVER (CP) — A union official being tried by his union here on charges of conducting a strike not authorized by the international headquarters, Tuesday called his judges a "bunch of rats."

Norm Eddison, a business agent for Vancouver local 97 of the International Association of Bridge, Structural and Ornamental Ironworkers (CLC), termed the trial: "A real example of Yankee gangsterism in union control."

Shadow of Death Over Jailed Boy May End Hanging

International Furore Sparks Fulton's Reply

(Special to the Colonist)

OTTAWA — An international controversy over the fate of a 14-year-old Canadian boy who is awaiting the death penalty today gave weight to reports parliament will hold a free vote on capital punishment at the coming session.

Justice minister Davie Fulton called a special press conference in an Ottawa hotel room to reply to an editorial in a British newspaper which criticized the government for its failure to commute the death sentence.

HUMAN INSTINCT

The newspaper, the Manchester Guardian, said Fulton's failure to commute the death sentence against 14-year-old Stephen Truscott "outrages every human instinct."

Truscott was sentenced to hang for the rape-murder of 13-year-old Lynne Harper, at Goderich, Ontario.

The Guardian said: "Britain was late enough in reforming its law, and Canada is later still."

SENSITIIVITY

Fulton's action in calling newsmen covering the Tory convention here to his room the moment he heard of the Guardian's editorial, is indicative of the government's sensitivity on the question of hanging.

He said it would be "improper" for the cabinet to commute the death sentence against Truscott while there is still time for an appeal to be launched.

He said that a new trial could even result in a different verdict.

USURP FUNCTION

"I am surprised the Manchester Guardian would suggest the Canadian government should usurp the functions of the courts, and deprive the boy of the opportunity to have the courts decide the question of guilt or innocence," said Fulton.

(The cabinet has already granted young Truscott a reprieve until Feb. 16, so that his appeal, now launched, can be heard.)

Prime Minister Diefenbaker and Mr. Fulton have indicated Truscott will not hang no matter what the verdict of the appeal court.

The justice minister said he expected "a full debate" at the coming session on the issue of capital punishment.

But, when pressed, he refused to state whether the question would be put to a vote. "That is up to Parliament," he said.

Frank McGee, Tory MP for York-Scarborough, has announced his intention of submitting a bill for the abolition of the death penalty. It will be up to the government to decide whether to "lift the whip" and let MPs vote according to their conscience. The bill is identical to that submitted in the past by Harold Winch, CCF MP for Vancouver-East.

Meteorite

Sky Rock Strike Hebrides

LONDON (AP) — A huge meteorite is believed to have struck the outer Hebrides in the last few days.

A crater the size of a football field was spotted Monday by mailman Duncan Macdonald on the island of Lewis, one of the 500 islands of the Hebrides off the west coast of Scotland.

"I could smell burning—it seemed to me there had been an explosion," Macdonald said.

At the royal observatory in Edinburgh, Prof. H. A. Bruck said it appeared a large meteorite had struck Lewis. Experts will be sent to investigate.

Rockets capable of carrying 60 passengers from Paris to New York in 15 minutes may soon be built by Russia, according to Soviet scientist Anatoly Blaganravov. He said Russians now have engines powerful enough for the craft.

Line Will Tap B.C.'s Own Oil

Construction of a $9,548,300 oil pipeline in northern B.C. to "really put the province in the oil business for the first time," was approved yesterday by the provincial cabinet.

The line will move northern B.C. crude oil to northern provincial and Vancouver markets.

SPRING START

Construction by Peace River Oil Pipe Line (B.C.) Ltd. is scheduled to start next spring, with completion possible as early as next fall.

It will be the first crude oil pipeline to carry B.C. oil and assures continuance of the province's thriving oil industry. (Trans-Mountain pipeline completed in 1953, crosses B.C. to Vancouver, but carries only oil from wells near Edmonton, Alta.

'IN BUSINESS'

"With completion of the project, British Columbia will, for the first time, really be in the oil business," Mines Minister Kenneth Kiernan said last night. "We will not only have substantial increased production, but will have a reasonable chance of marketing that product."

EIGHT-INCHER

The eight-inch line will draw crude from the Beatton River, Milligan Creek and Boundary Lake oilfields in the B.C. Peace River block and will serve refineries at Dawson Creek and Taylor Flats.

From Dawson Creek and Fort St. John the line will run southeast across the Alberta border to the Grande Prairie, Alta., area. Existing lines will bring the oil to Vancouver.

Still Division On Duplessis

QUEBEC CITY (UPI) — The Quebec legislative assembly last night adopted by a vote of 67-15 a bill to erect a monument to the late premier Maurice Duplessis. The Liberal opposition wanted the government to wait 10 years before erecting the memorial.

Steel Chiefs Won't Budge

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Management officials said Tuesday they won't budge from their "last offer" for settling the marathon steel dispute despite the fact that union leaders have already rejected it as inadequate.

Fog, Slides Hit Europe

LONDON (Reuters) — Wintry weather struck Eastern Europe with a vengeance Tuesday, claiming at least 14 lives in storms, avalanches, fogs and torrential rains.

Magistrate Tillie Holds Court

SASKATOON (CP) —A woman mounted the bench as provincial magistrate in city police court Tuesday, the first time a woman has held such a post in Saskatchewan.

Magistrate Tillie Taylor handled the city police criminal docket in the absence of Magistrate L. A. Surtees, dealing with the 10 names on the docket in less than an hour.

Merger Talks To Resume For Churches

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Rt. Rev. Angus J. MacQueen, moderator of the United Church of Canada, said yesterday talks between the United and Anglican churches on church union "likely will be resumed in the new year."

Most Rev. H. H. Clark, Anglican Church primate, said Monday talks between commissions of the two churches would be resumed "very soon."

Grain Market

WINNIPEG (CP) — Most prices had a steadier tone in moderate active trading.

Flax had good demand after early liquidation sales were absorbed. Trade reports indicated fair export inquiry, but no actual overseas business.

CHICAGO (AP)—The grain futures market was firmer and more

AT THE 19th

With Harry Young

I know of several four ball groups in this city who could do with the services of a chartered accountant to keep the tally for them.

The number and variety of wagers made in the round, by one group include Nassaus on first and second ball, and also on best ball; singles between each participant in the four; canastas and "eggs" which are doubled or trebled for birdies and eagles respectively.

In case any of these terms are not understood, nassaus are wagers based on the first and second nines and also on the match; "eggs" are taken by anyone who wins a hole outright, and sometimes they may be cumulative one hole to another; canastas are won by the person nearest the hole and on the green at a par three hole.

Under such a system of course everyone has to hole out, and the time taken to sort out the situation at the end of each hole causes a delay in driving off from the next tee. Yet some people wonder why it now takes over four hours to complete a round when the course is busy.

I met one usually brisk player who found himself landed into one of the "comptometer" matches the other day.

"This is worse than being at work," he said.

The professional team of Roy Chappell and Ron MacLeod took a second bite at the cherry Sunday at Uplands and held stoutly on to their city open buttons.

The redoubtable Colwood pair, Vic Painter and Bill McColl who had finished all square with them on the previous Sunday, were beaten 2-1 on this occasion, despite a gallant round by Painter, in which the Colwood captain gave his side a two stroke lead by winning the first and fourth holes in birdie figures.

McColl, however, had an off day, and so MacLeod and Roy Chappell with a best ball of 68 gradually assumed control. MacLeod played some fine shots to the green but did not putt so well for his one over par 71, while Chappell was around in 72.

This week the buttons scene changes to Victoria where MacLeod and Chappell will be on their home ground to oppose a new Gorge Vale parnership of Bill Wakeham and John Merriman. John has had many buttons partners since his illustrious combination with Bob Fleming set up all records for this competition. In Bill Wakeham he has one of Canada's most promising youngsters as partner, and the Victoria pair will have their work cut out to win this one.

As Wakeham is currently co-holder of the junior buttons in partnership with Allan MacLeod, there will be no junior game this week. Last week Wakeham and MacLeod beat the Uplands pair, Dick Humphries and John Hadfield, by 3 and 2 although they were two down at the turn. The holders then won the 10th, 11th, 12th, 1st, 3rd and 15th holes to turn the tide. Wakeham's homeward half was 32.

The Victoria club greens staff is busy working on the construction of a new 15th tee which is situated near the boundary of the club's property. The alteration will somewhat reduce the angle of the dog leg, but will make a slightly longer, and perhaps more difficult hole.

Purpose of the change is to make more ground available for car parking.

Cambridge Match Coming Up

Big Test for Yank at Oxford

By IAN GLENDAY

LONDON — Pete Dawkins, the crew-cut Yank at Oxford, has achieved in less than a dozen rugby matches a goal that is the fierce desire of any rugby-playing student who enters this famous English university. Although the American, a Rhodes Scholar and former all-American at West Point, probably doesn't realize the importance of his selection to the Oxford team that will meet Cambridge Dec. 8, he will soon become aware of the significance of the occasion.

For the university match at Twickenham, the home of English rugby, is much the same as the annual Army-Navy gridiron battle in which Dawkins has played such prominent roles, and is one of the most important sporting events on the calendar. There is the same "big-game" atmosphere, the tremendous rivalry that is so traditional in any major college or university event and the enthusiasm of excited students spurring the teams on from the stands.

In this respect Dawkins should be right at home. But the American may find the occasion a bit overwhelming from a rugby-playing point of view because this match will produce some first-class rugby by experienced international and club players who have acquired a sound knowledge of the game through years of practice and application.

Dawkins, in spite of his meteoric rise to the most coveted of all Oxford rugby honors, is still a novice and many of the critics who argued against his selection expect him to crash mightily in his first major test. This will be a match that will bring out the best in players and there will be no room for mistakes in such basic principles as positioning and tackling.

CONTRIBUTED LITTLE

The broad-shouldered American, who plays on the wing, scored two tries in his first senior match against Blackheath but in two subsequent matches — against Harlequins and Stanley's XV — he contributed little. His ability to carry the ball, his agility and speed, and his brilliant deception have not been questioned but, in spite of the bone-crushing tackles employed in American football, his tackling is suspect.

Dawkins has also shown his unfamiliarity with rugby football at times with his lack of positioning and against Harlequins he received little of the ball.

One feature of Dawkins' play that has captured the fancy of those who watch him is his left-handed, torpedo-like throw-in from line outs. But many observers feel that the American's throws are too hard for his team-mates to handle cleanly and start an attack quickly.

Nino Valdes, the lumbering Cuban heavyweight who has persistently tried but never succeeded in securing a world title fight, has taken London by storm. Valdes, one of the most popular overseas boxers to fight in England, arrived in London for his bout with Brian London, wearing a white linen suit and white shoes (they won't stay that way long) and described the color as a symbol of fear that world champions hold of him.

Then Valdes, who has oddly enough stopped within the distance three leading British heavyweights, got into a slugging brawl with American heavyweight Mike de John, who is fighting on the same card, in what was supposed to be a "friendly" sparring test.

Both boxers became so enthused that a halt had to be called in the proceedings for fear that neither of them would be in any condition to fulfil their Wembley engagements.

Stan Leonard's success in the Canada Cup golf competition was in many ways strangely ignored by the British press, which concentrated its efforts on Peter Thomson and the failures of the British Isles. So it was pleasant to read that the easy-going Leonard had beaten the Aussie in a playoff although the presentation of the story seemed more like Thomson losing than the Canadian winning. At least there were few excuses for the British showings and most reports commended the golfers for putting up a good show.

Canadians Concerned

Few Votes Likely For Games Ban

TORONTO (CP)—The suggestion that the Winter Olympic Games should be abolished would probably not raise a dozen favorable votes in the International Olympic Committee, A. Sidney Dawes, a committee member and former president of the Canadian Olympic Association, said Monday.

Dawes was commenting here on the proposal by Marc Hodler, president of the International Ski Federation, and Otto Mayer, chancellor of the IOC, that the Winter Olympics should be dropped by 1968.

"I can't imagine Mr. Holder being in favor of dropping the games," said Dawes.

If the proposal is raised in the committee, said Dawes, he will not support it and he believes that neither will most of the other members.

Mayer was reported Sunday as saying that the IOC would be delighted if the sports federations suggested abolishing the winter games. He said the games had become too professionalized and could no longer be considered Olympic sports.

SUGGESTIONS 'ABSURD'

In Montreal, Ken Farmer, president of the Canadian Olympic Association, said that as far as Canada is concerned, suggestions of professionalism in skiing are absurd.

"There is no opportunity in Canada for professional skiing except by teachers," he said.

Farmer also said there is no professionalism in figure skating in Canada although "I don't know whether that goes for Europe."

He said instead of abolishing the Winter Olympics, the summer event should be reduced in size to allow expansion of the small winter counterpart. Such indoor sports as boxing, wrestling, basketball and weightlifting could be transferred, he said.

"There are too many sports in the summer and too few in the Winter Olympics."

TWO-WEEKEND SHOOT

Two-weekend trap and rifle shoot will be held Dec. 13 and 20 by the Jordan River Athletic and Community Association at the Jordan River Hall. Meet will begin at 1 p.m. each day.

Dance-Skating Title Taken by Victorians

Two young Victorians won the bronze dance division and two former city girls finished one-two in the senior ladies' singles at the B.C. coast figure-skating championships in Vancouver Sunday.

Dance winners were Marilyn Strouts and Douglas Jubb, while Jill Henrichs and Bryce Swetnam finished third. Ladies' singles was won by Sherra Kenworthy with Maralee Rutley second, both former Victorians now living in Vancouver.

Among other city entrants, Dierdre Humphries was third and Janet Stenstrom fourth in junior ladies' singles, and Barry Castles was third in the juvenile boys' singles.

Frank Clark of Vancouver was unopposed for the senior men's title, which he won for the second consecutive year.

New Bridge

Courtenay's Wait Finally Rewarded

Courtenay is to get its long-awaited new bridge.

Through at least three government administrations — Liberal, Coalition and Social Credit—Courtenay has pleaded for a new crossing of the Courtenay River to replace the present narrow bridge which proves a bottleneck on the main Island Highway during any minor rush period.

Yesterday the provincial government called tenders for a new 250-foot steel truss span with a 24-foot roadway and a sidewalk on the upstream side.

It will be designed to Trans-Canada Highway load specifications and will be on about the same site as the existing bridge.

Tenders must be in by 2 p.m. Dec. 18, and the contractor will have six months to complete the structure.

The contractor will have his choice as to whether he wishes to move the old bridge slightly upstream while the new bridge is being built or build a temporary bridge upstream.

In any event he will not be allowed to close the road for more than four hours and then only with highways department approval and between 2 a.m. and 8 a.m.

The bridge is part of the main Island Highway from Courtenay to Campbell River.

TB Seals Net $1,200

NANAIMO — The Christmas TB seals, sponsored in Nanaimo by the Kiwanis Club, have so far realized more than $1,200, announced commitee chairman Jim Helmcken.

Mud Drags Boat Under At Nanaimo

NANAIMO—A boat tilted over in the mud at low tide in the harbor and was filled with water and sank when the tide came up again yesterday.

Fishing boat owner Earl Easthom was attempting to salvage the Silver Dawn yesterday.

Scots Cattle Roam on Fulford 'Moors"

FULFORD HARBOR — The fields about Fulford are looking more and more like the moors of Scotland lately, with the importation of an experimental herd of Highland cattle.

Bob Akerman, a well-known sheep farmer in the district, had the shaggy cattle sent over from the Fraser Valley. The herd numbers eight head at present.

The catle are quite stocky—some have the traditional long, wide-spread horns—brown hide and weight about 1,000 lbs., as far as Mr. Akerman can judge.

They are at present on his farm in Burgoyne Valley and they keep in the bushes at the back, as much as they can.

They seem to prefer the bush to the open fields and refuse the shelter of the barns.

Mr. Akerman is enthusiastic about his new venture, as is his five-year-old son Paddy, the cowboy of the family.

Duncan Dickers with Indians For Sewage Disposal Area

DUNCAN—City council is negotiating with Cowichan Reserve Indians for a 20-acre lagoon-style sewage disposal area, two miles east of Duncan.

Approval was given officially to them at a meeting Monday night by Indian agent F. A. Clark. The property council is seeking is on the Cowichan reserve.

Mayor Jack Dobson said the lagoon will be near the intersection of Tzouhalem and Maple Bay Roads.

Because a lot of the land boundaries are questionable, the city will probably have its own survey done to make sure it distributes the rent money correctly.

The lagoon disposal will replace the present unit on the eastern city limits. The outfall is into the Cowichan River, which passes through the reserve.

If it is built, it will be patterned after the Port Alberni lagoon disposal system which the Indian property owners have inspected in the company of city council members.

No Dearth of Police Duncan Council Told

DUNCAN—This city is not under-staffed with police officers, council has been told by RCMP Sgt. T. C. Fraser.

He said the city pays for only three constables, but in an emergency the entire 10-man detachment stationed in Duncan headquarters would be made available.

The head of the detachment made the remarks after the Duncan-Cowichan Chamber of Commerce queried if the city needed more police protection.

Rural Representative

Hospital Official Quits at Nanaimo

NANAIMO—A rural representative on Nanaimo Regional Hospital Improvement District board has resigned.

Walter Tickson said he resigned because hospital boards have no right to determine administration policy, although they are expected to raise the necessary finances for hospitals.

He said this is "taxation without representation."

Mr. Tickson, however, is not a member of Nanaimo Regional Hospital Society.

Mr. Tickson said hospitals should be set up like school boards.

Two trustees should be elected from each of the district's zones, he said, and seven additional members should be named from the city.

He objected to hospital boards operating "without the right to legislate."

Alberni Area Lags Behind In Rainfall

PORT ALBERNI—This district is lagging far behind its last year's rainfall record, according to figures supplied by Colin S. Wilson, government weather observer.

Precipitation total to Nov. 28 this year was 55.15 inches at the McCoy Lake weather station, compared to 72.91 inches for the same period in 1958.

For the week ending Nov. 28, 1.09 inches were recorded, with Monday's .63 inches highest for any single day.

Lowest temperature of the week at McCoy Lake was 30 degrees, while maximum for the period was 55 degrees, the peak reached Tuesday, Nov. 24.

After 20 Years

Full Arena Debt Paid by Nanaimo

NANAIMO—The last payment on Nanaimo's 20-year-old civic arena will be made this month.

The city borrowed $60,000 in 1939 in order to complete the arena project as an aid to unemployment.

At that time, the city was still getting over the effects of the depression and employment was scarce.

The federal and provincial governments granted $20,000 towards labor costs, and the Gyro Club provided $10,000.

This left the city with $60,000 to find. A bylaw was passed, and since that time just over $4,000 has been paid annually to meet the over-all $90,000 cost of the arena.

The last $4,000 payment will be made Dec. 15 to retire the debt.

Member-of-Year

Parksville Honors Fish, Game Leader

PARKSVILLE — Parksville Fish and Game Club president William Roberts received both the member-of-the-year trophy and the award for the largest deer shot by a game club member at the club's annual dinner.

The Alex Young Memorial Trophy, donated for the club member who contributed the most to game conservation during the year, was presented to Mr. Roberts by David Young, son of the late Alex Young who was a very ardent member of the club for some years.

The Fish and Game Club deer trophy was presented by J. E. Kingsley to Mr. Roberts for bagging the heaviest deer—165 pounds. Mr. Kingsley also presented the Rushton Memorial Trophy for the largest salmon caught by a club member to Frank Brown.

About 100 members and guests were welcomed to the smorgasbord-style dinner held at the Legion Hall. Among special guests were game warden Frank Greenfield of Nanaimo and Tom Michael, past-president of Qualicum Beach Fish and Game Club. Mr. Michael was presented with a novelty hunting award by Mr. Roberts.

Movies of big game and fishing were shown following dinner and dancing rounded out the program.

Ruling Soon On Dispute At Courtenay

COURTENAY—The arbitration board to rule on the dispute between Comox Logging and Railway Co. and Local 1-363 of the IWA over location of marshalling points will meet in Vancouver tomorrow.

The dispute is over the places where company trucks collect loggers to transport them to their work. It is a left-over issue from the province-wide IWA strike.

The formal sitting will be held in the offices of the Labor Relations Board in Vancouver. Mayor W. C. Moore of Courtenay is chairman of the board.

Errington Man Leader Of Island Drama Group

ERRINGTON—H. F. Butler has been elected chairman of the Northern Vancouver Island Region Drama Festival committee.

The meeting was attended by representatives from the Comox Valley Drama Club of Courtenay; Parksville Players; Coombs Drama Club; Masque Players of Port Alberni, and the E.D.A. Players of Errington.

Other officers elected: Ted Gaskell of Courtenay, vice-chairman; Gene Budney of Port Alberni, secretary-treasurer. Each club will be represented by two members on the executive committee.

No decision was reached as to which club should play host to the 1960 festival. No club felt in a position to do so at present.

For the past two years the festival has been held at Courtenay, and previously, Errington had hosted the festival for 11 consecutive years.

Public Works Committee Told

Fluoridation Good—Expert

City engineer James C. Garnett reported to public works committee yesterday that there is "abundant authoritative evidence as to the fenefit, harmlessness and practicability of closely controlled fluoridation."

However, he said, "only a plebiscite can determine the public view as to the desirability of such a service, assuming a probably average cost of $1 per service per annum."

Mr. Garnett submitted the report at the committee's request.

On engineering aspects, he said that there could be "no question as to the practicability of controlled fluoridation within the prescribed limits," and that the possibility of corrosive effects on the water system "is, in my opinion, sufficiently small as to be negligible."

"I can find no adverse reference to corrosion from fluoridation in any of the appropriate technical files," he said, "a most unlikely situation (if the problem existed) with more than 1,600 systems using fluoridation."

The questions of cost and desirability of using the public water system for dental health purposes, he suggested, should be matters for plebiscite, "the one because there is a body of opinion based on religious or similar grounds that must be respected and the other because no matter how beneficial a service is likely to be, the purchaser should have the right to say whether he thinks the price to be paid is excessive in comparison with its worth."

Trenches Won't Trip Shoppers

Christmas-shopping traffic soon will flow unimpeded by trenches in downtown Victoria streets.

The B.C. Electric underground wiring program will be suspended from late this week until early in January to avoid creating Christmas shopping inconvenience, the company has announced.

Program from January to April calls for completion of all downtown trenching and ductwork in the 30-block area where overhead power lines will be eliminated when the new underground lines are installed.

All-Day Parking Tougher

All-day parking on the streets near the legislative buildings, already prohibited, is going to be made more difficult.

Because of continued complaints from residents and also to encourage establishment of parking lots, city council public works committee yesterday recommended that the two-hour limit south and west of the buildings, now effective from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., be made effective from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.

ALBERNI — A list of questions on the sewage money bylaw was taken home again after a delegation was told by Alberni council Monday night that a public meeting will be called to discuss the subject.

W. F. Marshall, who headed the group of property-owners, said most people are convinced of the need for a sewage system in the city but some had expressed concern over the lack of factual data on the project and on the $565,000 loan bylaw.

He was told that council is planning to send out to each elector a pamphlet containing facts about the projects, and arrangements are being considered for a public meeting, apart from the annual stewardship meeting.

On the request of Mayor Jack Luckhurst, Mr. Marshall gave examples of the questions which will be asked at the public meeting. Among queries were:

Why a second large bylaw during the year?

What about forced hook-ups in the proposed system?

Why can some owner-electors who will not be serviced by the system vote on the loan bylaw?

Later, council set Tuesday, Dec. 8, as the date for the meeting, to be held in St. Andrew's United Church hall. The meeting will open at 8 p.m.

He is Phillip Gibson, 18, who will be held in custody until Thursday when he will appear before Magistrate W. H. Bryant at Chemainus.

Police said he appeared before the magistrate last month on the two original charges, but Gibson said he was 17 years old so the cases came up in juvenile court.

At the time he admitted being guilty of both offences. The cases will be dealt with in open police court, police said.

ALBERNI — Private use of the city dump will be refused unless applicants can give an assurance that another site for the disposal of rural garbage will be available within a very short time.

Arthur Mykyte and Roy Smith wrote city council asking that they be allowed to use the city dump on a temporary basis for their proposed garbage collection service for the Beaver Creek, Cherry Creek and Sproat Lake areas. They propose to set up their own disposal area when they can find Crown land for the purpose, they wrote.

Ald. T. S. Barnett, chairman of the health and welfare committee, said the committee was reluctant to recommend an agreement which might mean the city dump will become the repository for rural garbage for an indefinite period.

He said he had asked the help of MLA John Squire in the search for a rural dump site. The problem of rural garbage disposal is common to the entire province, said Ald. C. M. Blair.

Council members, agreeing that the request should be refused until the applicants can present a definite plan for a rural dump, expressed satisfaction in the fact that someone is attempting to solve the problem of garbage disposal in the rural areas of the district.

$500,000 City Hall Job 'No Use'

Bringing city hall up to safety standards required by city bylaws would so reduce space that an extension would have to be built, and total cost would be at least $500,000, city engineer James Garnett said yesterday.

But he suggested that this alternative should be considered when a special committee looks into the need and cost of a new city hall.

He made the suggestion while public works committee was debating the advisability of going ahead with a $3,850 interior painting program which, in the end, it recommended.

If rehabilitating the present building would cost $500,000, Ald. Hugh Ramsay said, "then it's no use putting it in here; it might as well be put into a new city hall."

Have to Interfere Too Much

Firms Doing Their Best Smoke Committee Says

Victoria's new smoke abatement advisory committee visited four mills yesterday and came away satisfied they were doing all they could to cut down smoke and cinders.

"I feel you would have to interfere with industry unduly to do anything more about it at the present time," said D. M. Malcolm, committee member who was spokesman for residents who petitioned last summer for stricter enforcement of the city smoke bylaw.

He and Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow, city council public works chairman, concurred in the opinion that the mills were doing their utmost to reduce smoke and cinders.

"One hope," said Ald. Edgelow, "is that as time progresses, they are finding more and more by-products, and getting less and less waste to burn."

He said B.C. Forest Products was investigating a bark press which might reduce the moisture in bark and result in better combustion.

Highway Killing Down

Highway slaughter on B.C. highways was on the downward trend in November, thanks to more careful Vancouver and Victoria drivers, but only 30 highway deaths this month would create a new yearly record for B.C.

Last year 34 people were killed on B.C., highways in December.

As of Nov. 30, the highway fatality total for 1959 stood at 287, up 39 from last year's total of 248.

But, in November, only 25 people were killed in road accidents compared with 30 in November, 1958. In Vancouver there was only one highway fatality in November this year, compared with 6 in November, 1958, and in Greater Victoria there was only one highway fatality last month (at Colwood) compared with three in November last year.

All time fatality record was set in 1956 when 316 were killed.

Last night as Safe Driving Week (Dec. 1 to 7) started motor vehicles branch superintendent George Lindsay cautioned citizens to show good sense in driving and walking, since "obeying the rules of courteous conduct will enable everyone to enjoy the entire holiday month."

Bamberton Park Deed Presentation Monday

The British Columbia recreation department will receive the deed to Bamberton Park at a ceremony Monday at 2 p.m. in the office of Recreation Minister Earle Westwood.

B. F. Cox, vice-president and general manager of B.C. Cement Company which is giving the 68.21 acres to the province, will present the deed to Mr. Westwood.

Parks branch workers are now building a 50-unit campsite and picnic site at the Bamberton property, just off Malahat Drive. Popular Sandy Beach will be included in the park and ample changehouse facilities are being provided.

Ex-Builder Seeks Office in Saanich

A former construction man now working for the Veteran's Land Act will run for the position of school trustee in Saanich school district 63 in the forthcoming civic elections.

Fred Berg, 4576 Wilkinson Road, announced his decision yesterday after he was nominated by G. L. Chatterton and A. B. Williams. The two main points on his platform will be closer supervision of new construction in school board projects, and sound investigation into all future school sites.

Employed as regional construction supervisor of VLA for the Vancouver Island area for the past three years, Mr. Berg previously held a similar position in the Interior. He is also a former physical education instructor.

Three Stores Entered On Oak Bay Avenue

Oak Bay police are investigating a series of break-ins discovered yesterday morning in the 2100 and 2200 blocks of Oak Bay Avenue. Three break-ins were reported and it is believed several other attempts were made in nearby shops.

A rear door had been forced at the Golden Galleon Cafe, 2239 Oak Bay, and $25 was missing from a cash register. Nothing else was disturbed there, police said.

Four or five women's sweaters, valued at $4 or $5 each, and $10 in nickels and dimes was taken from a dress shop at 2259 Oak Bay.

Crash Victim's Chin Cut

Patricia Tyrrell, 3981 Wilkinson Road, driver, was treated at St. Joseph's Hospital yesterday for a deep cut on the chin received in a three-car crash at Douglas and Frances Avenue.

Police said her car struck the rear of a car driven by John D. McKinnell, 2770 Murray Drive, which was stopped in the lane of traffic. His car was knocked into the rear of a car driven by Grant R. Watkins, 1335 Sussex, which was also stopped for traffic.

Rush-hour traffic at 5 p.m. held up by the accident was backed up as far south as the Douglas Street roundabout.

Biggest Day's Collection Sends 500 Fund Over $2,000

The biggest one-day collection in this year's drive yesterday sent The Daily Colonist 500 Fund over the $2,000 mark.

A total of $404.83 came in yesterday for the fund to help the 500 neediest families in the Greater Victoria area this Christmas. Total to date is $2,134.47.

Several fund-raising events are planned in conjunction with the drive. Victoria Gun Club will hold its annual turkey shoot at the club's Albert Head grounds Dec. 19 and 20, and the fund toy auction is set for Maynard & Sons Dec. 19.

Victoria Chapter 25, Women of the Moose, and the Loyal Order of Moose Lodge No. 1390 will hold a bingo game Dec. 7 at Moose Hall, 512-514 Fort Street, with proceeds going to the fund. Victoria Optimist Club will make its donation at its bingo game tomorrow night at Central Junior High School.

In addition, F. W. Lockett of Cook Street Fish & Chips Shop, 250 Cook, is again raffling off a huge Christmas stocking, and at the same time taking donations for the Colonist 500 Fund.

The $2,000 already taken in means that each of the 500 families selected by welfare agencies will receive at least $4, but there is still a long way to go.

Donations, deductible for income tax purposes, may be sent to "The Daily Colonist 500 Fund, 2631 Douglas Street." They can be left at that office or at the downtown office, 1215 Broad Street. Latest donations:

NAVY SETS ICY DIVING MARK

Plunge Off Alaska

By TERRY HAMMOND

A group of 10 Royal Canadian Navy divers returned to their Victoria homes yesterday after a world-record mass dive 175 feet down in sub-freezing Alaskan waters.

The divers, ranging in rank from lieutenant-commander to able seaman, achieved a world record for naval personnel wearing self-contained "wet suit" equipment.

Purpose of the record dive was to prove the practicability of wet suits at extreme depths and in extreme cold.

Temperature of the water off towering Taku Glacier where the dive took place was 30 degrees, two degrees colder than the temperature at which fresh water freezes and just half a degree above the lowest recorded temperature of ocean water.

Only two other divers in the world are known to have achieved a similar mark.

BERING SEA

They are two San Diego civilian scientists who recorded a depth of 180 feet in wet suits in the Bering Sea.

The feat of the Victoria contingent of divers may result in a major policy change on Royal Canadian Navy approved diving equipment.

ONE OF FIRST

In command of the diving operation, and one of the first pair of divers to set foot on the muddy bottom near the foot of the glacier more than 800 miles northwest of Victoria, was Lt.-Cmdr. Benjamin Ackerman, 3363 Glasgow, commander of the RCN's operational clearance diving unit No. 2, attached to HMCS Naden.

For him, as well as the other divers, the technical accomplishment was a major one.

He and his men have long advocated acceptance of the wet suit diving technique as standard naval diving procedure.

'Just Like Wintry Day'

"It was no worse than stepping outside on a cold, wintry day."

That was the way AB Albert Lodge, 21, youngest member of the Royal Canadian Navy's record-setting, 10-man diving team, described the way it feels to be 175 feet below the ocean in water two degrees below freezing and wearing a "wet suit."

"I wasn't really worried—the only thing that was on my mind was the cold.

"We'd tested the suits in a pressure chamber and we had noticed that it shrank to at least half its thickness under the pressure of a 175-foot dive.

"I wasn't really cold down there, and on the way up, as the pressure got less and the suit got thicker again I felt quite warm."

The men of the team got an average of 14 cents a minute during the duration of the dive—a total of about $4 per man (risk pay).

But that wasn't a factor to LS Fred Olkovick, 29.

"I'd even do it for nothing," he said.

"I guess I just love diving.

"Before I went down I sort of wondered, but after I came up I was really thrilled."

PO George Ackerman, a navy diver for more than 12 years, said he was "just a bit cold" on the bottom, but said he would have been warmer if he had had a task to perform.

LS Robert Larsen, a former Toronto resident now living with his wife and small child at 9806 Fifth Street, said he was "sort of dubious" before the dive.

"But I'd do it again any time, I didn't even feel the cold."

Record Dive No Challenge

Civilian "skindivers" should not accept the record dive by 10 Victoria-based RCN divers as a "challenge to try to do better," the commander of the contingent warned yesterday.

Lt.-Cmdr. Benjamin Ackerman, one of the 10 who made the dive to 175 feet in 30-degree Alaskan waters, said "our dive was a stunt, but it was a stunt with a purpose.

"It was designed as a test of divers and diving equipment.

"It was carefully controlled, well equipped and involved only highly experienced divers," he added.

"We had extensive naval resources at our command, we had diving tenders down at the decompression level in case anybody ran into trouble and we had spare equipment, including lungs and tanks, tethered to the descent line in case we needed it."

He said few amateur divers have as many diving hours as the least experienced members of the team, and fewer have the equipment resources to call upon.

Electrolysis Sinks Boat At Wharf

TOFINO — The 40-foot department of fisheries patrol launch, Atolla, moored at the fishermen's float, sank Monday night when part of the steel plating was decomposed by a chemical reaction.

Electrolysis — chemical decomposition by electrical action —was yesterday blamed for the hole which caused the boat to settle to the bottom.

Neither Captain Harold Arnet or fisheries officer Gordon Barrie were aboard overnight but considerable water damage was done to the interior of the boat and the equipment it contained.

The Atolla was lifted at low tide and is being serviced at the Tofino marine works.

Wicks Ailing With Flu

Labor Minister Wicks has been ordered to bed for a week by his doctor. Mrs. Wicks said Tuesday her husband caught a cold last week that developed into flu.

Yankee Gangsters In Control?

VANCOUVER (CP) — A union official being tried by his union here on charges of conducting a strike not authorized by the international headquarters, Tuesday called his judges a "bunch of rats."

Norm Eddison, a business agent for Vancouver local 97 of the International Association of Bridge, Structural and Ornamental Ironworkers (CLC), termed the trial:

"A real example of Yankee gangsterism in union control."

Meteorite

Sky Rock Strikes Hebrides

LONDON (AP) — A huge meteorite is believed to have struck the outer Hebrides in the last few days.

A crater the size of a football field was spotted Monday by mailman Duncan Macdonald on the island of Lewis, one of the 500 islands of the Hebrides off the west coast of Scotland.

"I could smell burning—it seemed to me there had been an explosion," Macdonald said.

At the royal observatory in Edinburgh, Prof. H. A. Bruck said it appeared a large meteorite had struck Lewis. Experts will be sent to investigate.

Rockets capable of carrying 60 passengers from Paris to New York in 15 minutes may soon be built by Russia, according to Soviet scientist Anatoly Blaganravov. He said Russians now have engines powerful enough for the craft.

Still Division On Duplessis

QUEBEC CITY (UPI) — The Quebec legislative assembly last night adopted by a vote of 67-15 a bill to erect a monument to the late premier, Maurice Duplessis. The Liberal opposition wanted the government to wait 10 years before erecting the memorial.

Jailed Boy Furore May End Hanging

Free Vote Possible In Next Parliament

(Special to the Colonist)

OTTAWA — An international controversy over the fate of a 14-year-old Canadian boy who is awaiting the death penalty yesterday gave weight to reports Parliament will hold a free vote on capital punishment at the coming session.

Justice Minister Davie Fulton called a special press conference in an Ottawa hotel room to reply to an editorial in a British newspaper which criticized the government for its failure to commute the death sentence.

HUMAN INSTINCT

The newspaper, the Manchester Guardian, said Fulton's failure to commute the death sentence against 14-year-old Stephen Truscott "outrages every human instinct."

Truscott was sentenced to hang for the rape-murder of 13-year-old Lynne Harper, at Goderich, Ontario.

The Guardian said: "Britain was late enough in reforming its law, and Canada is later still."

SENSITIVITY

Fulton's action in calling newsmen covering the Tory convention here to his room the moment he heard of the Guardian's editorial, is indicative of the government's sensitivity on the question of hanging.

He said it would be "improper" for the cabinet to commute the death sentence against Truscott while there is still time for an appeal to be launched.

He said that a new trial could even result in a different verdict.

USURP FUNCTION

"I am surprised the Manchester Guardian would suggest the Canadian government should usurp the functions of the courts, and deprive the boy of the opportunity to have the courts decide the question of guilt or innocence," said Fulton.

(The cabinet has already granted young Truscott a reprieve until Feb. 16, so that his appeal, now launched, can be heard.)

Prime Minister Diefenbaker and Mr. Fulton have indicated Truscott will not hang no matter what the verdict of the appeal court.

Frank McGee, Tory MP for York-Scarborough, has announced his intention of submitting a bill for the abolition of the death penalty. It will be up to the government to decide whether to "lift the whip" and let MPs vote according to their conscience. The bill is identical to that submitted in the past by Harold Winch, CCF MP for Vancouver-East.

SASKATOON (CP) —A woman mounted the bench as provincial magistrate in city police court Tuesday, the first time a woman has held such a post in Saskatchewan.

Most Rev. H. H. Clark, Anglican Church primate, said Monday talks between commissions of the two churches would be resumed "very soon."

Caterpillar Finds Foe

DETROIT (CP) — A Canadian research team has discovered a means of waging bacteriological warfare on the caterpillar, arch-enemy of the farmer's orchard.

Dr. T. A. Angus of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., head of the insect pathology research institute of the Canadian department of agriculture, says his research team has succeeded in producing a poisonous compound from bacteria that paralyzes the caterpillar larvae.

Line Will Tap B.C.'s Own Oil

Construction of a $9,548,300 oil pipeline in northern B.C. to "really put the province in the oil business for the first time," was approved yesterday by the provincial cabinet.

The line will move northern B.C. crude oil to northern provincial and Vancouver markets.

SPRING START

Construction by Peace River Oil Pipe Line (B.C.) Ltd. is scheduled to start next spring, with completion possible as early as next fall.

It will be the first crude oil pipeline to carry B.C. oil and assures continuance of the province's thriving oil industry. (Trans-Mountain pipeline, completed in 1953, crosses B.C. to Vancouver, but carries only oil from wells near Edmonton, Alta.

'IN BUSINESS'

"With completion of the project, British Columbia will, for the first time, really be in the oil business," Mines Minister Kenneth Kiernan said last night. "We will not only have substantial, increased production, but will have a reasonable chance of marketing that product."

The eight-inch line will draw crude from the Beatton River, Milligan Creek and Boundary Lake oilfields in the B.C. Peace River block and will serve refineries at Dawson Creek and Taylor Flats.

From Dawson Creek and Fort St. John the line will run southeast across the Alberta border to the Grande Prairie, Alta., area. Existing lines will bring the oil to Vancouver.

Steel Chiefs Won't Budge

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Management officials said Tuesday they won't budge from their "last offer" for settling the marathon steel dispute despite the fact that union leaders have already rejected it as inadequate.
